

INTRODUCTION

Artists and designers have always been influenced by their environment, so art often reflects its time and place. Design has changed with time and places since the first small sculptures and cave paintings. Of course, in the beginning those who made the first fertility goddesses and painting of animals were probably not thinking of design in the way that we do now.

mind attainable in Art It is the absolute and perfect union of practical design and theoretical contemplation as realised in the spiritual creations of poetry the highest of the Arts It thus combines in principle and essence the lower utilitarian and objective forms The work of Art as such furnishes the highest and purest pleasure involving as it does a perfect activity realising its own end and bringing with it the repose of the spirit in theoretical contemplation 2 A further distinction in the Beautiful rests upon the relation of the embodied ideal or spiritual idea to the material in which it is represented Here the differences are determined by the predominance of the one or the other of the two sides or by their being in equal proportion so that there is a relation of equality and balance between them In connection with this second distinction of the Beautiful we have the historical development of Art and this unfolds the different forms of Art First the work of Art appears in a purely external and direct form the Beautiful being exhibited mainly in material objects The thought or subjective ideal is indeed present but it is in a manner sunk in the material and is often exhibited only as an ornamentation on the form of the object This Purposes of Art Albert Edward Elsen,1981 Philosophy of the Arts Gordon Graham,2000 This work is an expanded and updated new edition of this textbook It presents a comprehensive introduction to those coming to aesthetics and the philosophy of art for the first time Two entirely new sections are presented on digital music and environmental aesthetics and all other chapters have been thoroughly revised and brought up to date As with the first edition the book is written in a wholly untechnical style and appeals to students of music art history and literature as well as philosophy looks at a wide range of the arts from film painting and architecture to fiction music and poetry discusses a range of philosophical theories of thinkers such as Hume Kant Habermas Collingwood Derrida Hegel and Schopenhauer contains regular summaries and suggestions for further reading and now includes two new sections on digital music and environmental aesthetics
