Beached Birds A Coast Field Guide:

Field Guide to Birds of the Northern California Coast Rich Stallcup, Jules Evens, 2014-08-06 The Northern California coast from Monterey County to the Oregon border is home to some of the richest avian habitats on the North American continent. Field Guide to Birds of the Northern California Coast provides a comprehensive ecological overview of this extensive and diverse region. It features detailed discussions of the area's most common waterbirds, raptors, and landbirds, and highlights the most productive birding sites in each Northern California coastal county. Accessibly written and user friendly, this guide contains nearly 250 species accounts that focus on seasonal rhythms and behavioral characteristics of each species. More than 130 color photographs and hand-drawn sketches depict the birds in context, and maps and occurrence charts indicate when readers might spot each species.

Citizen Science for Coastal and Marine Conservation John A. Cigliano, Heidi L. Ballard, 2017-10-31 In recent years, citizen science has emerged as a powerful new concept to enable the general public, students, and volunteers to become involved in scientific research. A prime example is in biodiversity conservation, where data collection and monitoring can be greatly enhanced through citizen participation. This is the first book to provide much-needed guidance and case studies from marine and coastal conservation. The novelty and rapid expansion of the field has created a demand for the discussion of key issues and the development of best practices. The book demonstrates the utility and feasibility, as well as limitations, of using marine and coastal citizen science for conservation, and by providing critical considerations, i.e. which questions and systems are best suited for citizen science, presents recommendations for best practices for successful marine and coastal citizen science projects. A range of case studies, for example, on monitoring of seabird populations, invasive species, plastics pollution, and the impacts of climate change from different parts of the world is included. Also included are discussions on engaging youth, indigenous communities, and divers and snorkelers as citizen scientists, as well as best practices on communication within citizen science, building trust with stakeholders, and informing marine policy as part of this exciting and empowering way of improving marine and coastal conservation. FWS/OBS., 1980

Strand Bonnie Henderson, 2008 In Strand, travel writer and amateur naturalist Bonnie Henderson traces the stories of wrack washed up on the mile-long stretch of Oregon beach she has walked regularly for more than a decade. Henderson's writing conveys both a keen attention to the specifics of place and an expansive field of vision. The burned hull of a long-abandoned fishing boat, a glass fishing float, the egg case of a skate, a beached minke whale, an unusual number of dead murrelets, and an athletic shoe are the starting points for essays that reach across the globe. Henderson takes readers from Coos Bay, Oregon, to Vancouver, B.C., from the currents circulating through the North Pacific to the Eastern Garbage Patch between Hawaii and California from China's Shenzhen Special Economic Zone to fishing villages on the coast of Hokkaido Japan As Henderson uncovers these odysseys she meditates on current issues events and phenomena oil spills the proliferation of ocean debris international trade the evolution of sharks and the survival prospects of whales The characters that emerge range from the world's leading minke whale researchers to the crew of a Coast Guard airbase to a small town salvager of wrecked fishing boats glued to the radio and praying for disaster Strand offers a thoughtful look at the surprisingly far ranging journeys of what washes up on our Pacific shores Bird Observer ,2002
