George Elliott Clarke

Beatrice Chancy

Klaus-Dieter Ertler, Hartmut Lutz

Beatrice Chancy:

Beatrice Chancy George Elliott Clarke, 1999 Beatrice Chancy is set in 1801 in the Annapolis Valley of Nova Scotia. Beatrice is the daughter of a black slave who was raped by her white master. Raised in the master's house, Beatrice is beautiful, clever, kind, and cultured. Her father's prize possession, her declaration of love for a slave, sparks tension that culminates in a monstrous act: the rape of Beatrice by her own father. From here, violence begets violence until her father is killed and Beatrice is hanged for his death. The passion and sorrow of Beatrice Chancy's story are matched only by the brilliance of the language used to express it. For booksellers uncertain about shelving this with plays or poetry, neither is apt. Beatrice Chancy is a singular creative work that should be shelved under tour de force or must read. Quill Quire Starred Review.

No Mother, No Future Kailin Wright, 2026-02-20 No Mother, No Future investigates how theatre and performance use pregnancy loss to represent a lost future. Spanning the twentieth and twenty-first centuries, this book analyzes performances that challenge dominant cultural scripts linking motherhood with futurity and nationhood in Canada and the United States. Combining intersectional feminism with theories of reproductive justice and reproductive futurity, this work interrogates how pregnancy loss, especially when experienced by those excluded from white heteronormative ideals of motherhood, is often portrayed as a societal failure. It examines reproductive loss not only as a dramatic device but also as a political reality shaped by systemic violence, including slavery, forced sterilization, and child welfare policies that disproportionately target Indigenous and Black communities. Through in-depth analyses and original interviews with playwrights, directors, and actors, this volume offers a critical framework for understanding how performance stages reproductive loss as a site of resistance. As the first book-length study of motherhood and reproduction in Canadian theatre, it is essential reading for scholars and students in theatre performance studies, feminist theory, cultural studies, and reproductive justice.

Africadian Atlantic Alexander MacLeod, Diana Brydon, 2012-01-01 This collection features essays on Nova Scotia-born poet, playwright, and literary critic George Elliott Clarke. Instrumental in promoting the writing of writers of African descent, Clarke's work has won awards including the Governor General's Award for poetry. He is also the recipient of seven honorary doctorates.

On the Other Side(s) of 150 Linda M. Morra, Sarah Henzi, 2021-05-20 On the Other Side(s) of 150 explores the different literary, historical, and cultural legacies of Canada's sesquicentennial celebrations. It asks vital questions about the ways that histories and stories have been suppressed and invites consideration about what happens once a commemorative moment has passed. Like a Cubist painting, this modality offers a critical strategy by which to approach the volume as dismantling, reassembling, and re-enacting existing commemorative tropes, as offering multiple conditional and contingent viewpoints that unfold over time, and as generating a broader, although far from being comprehensive, range of counter-memorial performances. The chapters in this volume are thus provisional, interconnected, and adaptive; they offer critical assemblages by which to approach commemorative narratives or showcase lacunae therein.

which to return to and intervene in ongoing readings of the past from the present moment and by which not necessarily to resolve but rather to understand the troubled and troubling narratives of the present moment Contributors propose that these preoccupations are not a means of turning away from present concerns but rather a means of grappling with how the past informs or is shaped to inform them and how such concerns are defined by immediate social contexts and networks

Postfeminist Gothic B. Brabon, S. Genz, 2007-01-31 This book explores new critical ground by addressing the intersection of two contentious concepts postfeminism and Gothic This collection of original and exciting essays examines a number of Gothic texts from Anne Radcliffe's romances to modern horror films in conjunction with diverse postfeminist theories from backlash to postmodern feminism

Why We Write H. Nigel Thomas, 2006 In this volume African Canadian novelists and poets discuss the complexities of the writing experience Most of the writers interviewed here are humanists i.e. they see their work as serious depictions of the human condition admit that their works are informed by an African Canadian ontology and adhere to the notion that their books must delight and instruct These interviews therefore are valuable additions to the creative process of the individual writers Apart from identifying how the writers geographical and social origins have influenced their work the questions deliberately avoid autobiography Instead these writers respond to the exigencies of craft the manipulations of publishers the criticism of readers and the absence of a clearly identifiable market for their works Interviewed in this volume Ayanna Black Austin Clarke George Elliott Clarke Wayne Compton Afua Cooper Bernadette Dyer Cecil Foster Claire Harris Lawrence Hill Nalo Hopkinson Suzette Mayr Pamela Mordecai M.
