Computer Supported Collaborative Learning Claire O'Malley,2012-12-06 Although research in collaborative learning has a fairly long history dating back at least to the early work of Piaget and Vygotsky it is only recently that workers have begun to apply some of its findings to the design of computer based learning systems The early generation of the le systems focused on their potential for supporting individual learning learning could be self paced teaching could be adapted to individual learners needs This was certainly the promise of the later generation of intelligent tutoring systems However this promise has yet to be realised Not only are there still some very difficult research problems to solve in providing adaptive learning systems but there are also some very real practical constraints on the widespread take up of individualised computer based instruction Reseachers soon began to realise that the organisational cultural and social contexts of the classroom have to be taken into account in designing systems to promote effective learning Much of the work that goes on in classrooms is collaborative whether by design or not Teachers also need to be able to adapt the technology to their varying needs Developments in technology such as networking have also contributed to changes in the way in which computers may be envisaged to support learning In September 1989 a group of researchers met in Maratea Italy for a NATO sponsored workshop on Computer supported collaborative learning A total of 20 researchers from Europe Belgium The SAGE Encyclopedia of Educational Technology J.
