Developmental Systems Insects:

Developmental Systems: Insects S. J. Counce, Conrad Hal Waddington, 1972 Encyclopedia of Entomology John L. Capinera, 2008-08-11 This text brings together fundamental information on insect taxa morphology ecology behavior physiology and genetics Close relatives of insects such as spiders and mites are included Entomology Cedric Gillot, 2013-03-14 The idea of writing this book was conceived when in the late 1960s I began teaching a senior undergraduate class in general entomology I soon realized that there was no suitable text for the class I intended to give The so called general or introductory texts reflected the traditional taxonomic approach to entomology and contained relatively little information on the physiology and ecology of insects This does not mean that there were no books containing such information There were several but these were so specialized and de tailed that their use in an introductory class was limited I hold a strong belief that an undergraduate general entomology course should provide a balanced treatment of the subject Thus although some time should be devoted to taxonomy including identification best done in the laboratory using primar ily material which students themselves have collected supplemented with specimens from the general collection appropriate time should be given also to discussion of the evolution development physiology and ecology of in sects In the latter category I include the interactions between insects and Man because it is important to stress that these interactions follow normal ecological principles Naturally the format of this book reflects this belief The book has been arranged in four sections each of which necessarily overlaps with the others Insect Reproduction S. R. Leather, 2018-01-18 This book consisting of ten review chapters contributed by leading workers in their respective fields from around the world covers the whole subject of insect reproduction It begins with the basic physiological questions of insect reproduction moves on to discuss the new advances seen in the fields of behavioural and ecological mechanisms and culminates by examining the recent work on evolutionary biology and its application in the field Each chapter although including a brief review of the basic seminal work focuses mainly on the advances made within the last ten years and highlights those areas in which the respective authors see the greatest scope for further important advances Insect Development and Evolution Bruce S. Heming, 2018-10-18 Life scientists are increasingly drawn to the study of comparative evolutionary biology Insect Development and Evolution is the first synthesis of knowledge of insect development within an evolutionary framework and the first to survey the genetic molecular and whole organism literature Bruce S Heming provides a detailed introduction to the embryonic and postembryonic development of insects Topics include reproductive systems male and female gametogenesis sperm transfer and use fertilization sex determination parthenogenesis embryogenesis postembryogenesis hormones and the role of ontogeny in insect evolution Summaries for each of these topics cover structural events comparative aspects inserted on a phylogeny of the insect orders and hormonal genetic and molecular causal analyses Insect Development and Evolution treats examples throughout the hexapods with frequent reference to the evolution and development of other invertebrates It also compares insects to vertebrates and places insect development into context with fossil evidence and earth history Heming's book will become an essential tool for students and teachers of entomology It will also interest insect systematists and paleontologists insect behavioral ecologists insect pathologists applied entomologists developmental and invertebrate biologists and all scientists who use Drosophila as a model organism Physiological Systems in Insects Marc J. Klownen, 2007-08-30 Endocrine Systems Integumentary Systems Developmental Systems Reproductive Systems Behavioral Systems Metabolic Systems Circulatory Systems Excretory Systems Respiratory Systems Locomotor Systems Nervous Systems Communication Systems Bibliography of Agriculture, 1973-07 Insect Development P. A. Lawrence, Peter Anthony Lawrence, 1976 The Insects Reginald Frederick Chapman, 1998 A long awaited update of a well established standard text and respected reference work for students and researchers in zoology entomology and physiology this fourth edition has been rewritten throughout while retaining the successful structure of the earlier editions Illustrations have been augmented with electron micrographs Development Systems: Insects Sheila Jean Counce, Conrad Hal Waddington, 1972 Development Systems C. Kerkut, Lawrence Irwin Gilbert, 1985 Endocrinology II concerns the actions of hormones in insects complementing Volume 7 which is concerned with the production and chemistry of insect hormones While the preceding volume is directed mainly towards the insect endocrinologist this volume has much of intrinsic interest to the general physiologist It deals with the regulation of metabolism reproduction cuticle properties and certain aspects of behaviour from a systems point of view and amply documents how hormones have provided basic insights into the functioning of such systems Interference in endocrine regulation could provide future systems for insect control and this volume will provide the foundation on which the future formulation of these strategies is based More information on diverse aspects of insect hormone action is brought together here than in any previous single work and this volume will therefore be a valuable reference source for many years to come
