Lee, 1996-12-17 Volume 4 of Biomembranes covers endocytosis exocytosis and related processes A major role of the plasma membrane is as a permeability barrier keeping the inside of the cell inside and the outside outside Mechanisms must then exist to allow movement of material between the cell and its environment One mechanism for export from the cell is by exocytosis a process in which the membranes of secretory vesicles fuse with the plasma membrane releasing the contents of the vesicle into the extracellular medium The process has been studied in particular depth for the release of neurotransmitters at the synapse Import into the cell is possible by the process of receptor mediated endocytosis in which selected plasma membrane proteins are internalized when these proteins are receptors for macromolecules the result is uptake of the macromolecule Transferring the low density lipoprotein and asialoglycoproteins are all taken up into cells in this way Phagocytosis the ingestion of cells and cell fragments by neutrophils and macrophages also involves receptors on the phagocytic membrane of which the best studied are those for the Fc domain of IgG for the third component of complement and for the mannose fructose carbohydrates Protection of a host against infection can also be achieved by damaging the integrity of the plasma membrane of the invading organism This is the strategy evolved by the cytotoxic T lymphocytes which produce a pore forming toxin perforin Volume 4 of Biomembranes explores the structures and mechanisms involved in these biologically and medically important processes The Assembly Herald ,1915 Thrombosis and Hemorrhage Joseph Loscalzo,Andrew I.
