Thirunavukkarasu, 2025-06-01 Sustainable Goat Production in the Changing Climate aims to make the global scientific and academic communities aware of the potential of goats as a livestock of the future. When compared to more popular meat sources like cattle and swine, goats have a lower carbon footprint and can aid in mitigating the effects of climate change as well as improving food production, poverty, and equity issues. This book will discuss the implications of climate change on goat production systems and emphasize the physiological potential of goats to adapt to erratically changing climatic conditions. Furthermore, the book includes chapters on strategies to mitigate the effects of climate change on goat production and highlights novel technologies used to assess the impact of heat stress in goats. Technology transfer strategies and policy-related issues will also be covered. Written and edited by an international team of experts on goats, livestock, animal agriculture, and climate-smart food systems, Sustainable Goat Production in the Changing Climate will appeal to a broad audience from researchers to livestock specialists, veterinarians, and policymakers in food and sustainability. Explores the potential of goats as future livestock species for animal origin foods. Summarizes the impact of climate change on goats and goat production systems. Proposes technological interventions ranging from management to bio-technological solutions. Identifies gaps in technology transfer activities and policymaking and provides solutions. Floods in a Changing Climate Slobodan P. Simonović, 2012-11-22 Flood risk management is presented in this book as a framework for identifying, assessing, and prioritizing climate-related risks and developing appropriate adaptation responses. Rigorous assessment is employed to determine the available probabilistic and fuzzy set-based analytic tools when each is appropriate and how to apply them to practical problems. Academic researchers in the fields of hydrology, climate change, environmental science, and policy and risk assessment and professionals and policy makers working in hazard mitigation water resources engineering and environmental economics will find this an invaluable resource This volume is the fourth in a collection of four books on flood disaster management theory and practice within the context of anthropogenic climate change The others are Floods in a Changing Climate Extreme Precipitation by Ramesh Teegavarapu Floods in a Changing Climate Hydrologic Modeling by P P Mujumdar and D Nagesh Kumar and Floods in a Changing Climate Inundation Modelling by Giuliano Di Baldassarre

Changing Climate, Changing Worlds Meredith Welch-Devine,Anne Sourdriil,Brian J. Burke,2020-04-07 This book explores how individuals and communities perceive and understand climate change using their observations of change in the world around them Because processes of climatic change operate at spatial and temporal scales that differ from those of everyday practice the phenomenon can be difficult to understand However flora and fauna which are important natural and cultural resources for human communities do respond to the pressures of environmental change Humans in turn observe and adapt to those responses even when they may not understand their causes Much of the discussion about human experiences of our changing climate centers on disasters and extreme events but we argue that a focus on the everyday on the microexperiences of change has the advantage of revealing how people see feel and make sense of climate change in their own lives The chapters of this book are drawn from Asia Europe Africa and South and North America They use ethnographic inquiry to understand local knowledge and perceptions of climate change and the social and ecological changes inextricably intertwined with it Together they illustrate the complex process of coming to know climate change show some of the many ways that climate change and our responses to it inflict violence and point to promising avenues for moving toward just and authentic collaborative responses
