Dispute Resolution Under Tax Treaties Zvi Daniel Altman,2005 As the interrelationship among tax bases continues to parallel the rapid development of the global economy disputes among governments as to their right to tax international trade and investments under income tax treaties are expected to increase in number and scope Winner of the 2006 Mitchell B Carroll Prize awarded by the International Fiscal Association IFA Why this book This study takes an in depth look at the mechanisms used to resolve such disputes and how they interact with the interests of the various parties involved in the process The study presents an analysis of the available literature supplemented by statistical data from North America Europe and Asia Analysis of this data leads to interesting insights into the way the dispute resolution process functions when it is applied in different contexts The study concludes by suggesting the creation of a new mechanism for the resolution of tax treaty related disputes and advocates in part the establishment of a new international organization with links to domestic judicial networks This mechanism is then subjected to the same common framework analysis and checklist used in earlier parts of the study The analysis suggests how such a mechanism would mitigate some of the most formidable challenges associated with the current dispute resolution procedures

International Contracts and National Economic Regulation:Dispute Resolution Through International Commercial Arbitration Mahmood Bagheri,2000-12-06 The growth of national economic regulation and the process of globalisation increasingly expose international transactions to an array of regulations from different jurisdictions These developments often contribute to widespread international contractual failures when parties claim the incompatibility of their contractual obligations with regulatory laws The author challenges conventional means of dispute resolution and argues for an interdisciplinary approach whereby disciplines such as international economic law conflict of laws contract law and economic regulations are functionally united to resolve international and multifaceted regulatory disputes He identifies the normative foundation of contract law as an important determinant in this process contending that contract law is essentially neutral and underpinned by the concept of corrective justice while economic regulations are mainly prompted by distributive justice Applying this corrective distributive justice dichotomy to international contracts the author critically assesses major conflict of laws approaches such as proper law the Rome Convention and governmental interest analysis which could disregard either public interest or private rights The author taking these theories into account proposes an alternative two dimensional interest analysis approach He tests the viability of this approach with reference to arbitral awards and court decisions in various jurisdictions and concludes that it uniquely fits into the structure of international commercial arbitration In adopting this approach arbitrators would take into account both corrective and distributive justice and to the extent that corrective justice prevails would be able to avert a total failure of the contract
