Development Structures Of Creole Langu:

Structure and Variation in Language Contact Ana Deumert, Stephanie Durrleman-Tame, 2006-01-01 This volume presents a careful selection of fifteen articles presented at the SPCL meetings in Atlanta Boston and Hawai i in 2003 and 2004 The contributions reflect from various perspectives and using different types of data on the interplay between structure and variation in contact languages both synchronically and diachronically The contributors consider a wide range of languages including Surinamese creoles Chinook Jargon Yiddish AAVE Haitian Creole Afro Hispanic and Afro Portuguese varieties Nigerian Pidgin Sri Lankan Malay Papiamentu and Bahamian Creole English Hackert A need to question and test existing claims regarding pidginization creolization is evident in all contributions and the authors provide analyses for a variety of grammatical structures VO ordering and affixation agglutination negation TMAs plural marking the copula and serial verb constructions The volume provides ample evidence for the observation that pidgin creole studies is today a mature subfield of linguistics which is making important contributions to general linguistic theory Development and Structures of Creole Languages

Francis Byrne, Thom Huebner, 1991 This collection of original essays is intended to both celebrate Derek Bickerton s sixty fifth birthday and honor his long and eminent career Each author included in the volume is a noted scholar who has distinguished him herself in some area of linguistics and has professionally or personally interacted with Bickerton and been influenced by his work While the papers make independent thematic contributions they also discuss augment present alternatives to or are inspired in some way by Bickerton s seminal ideas or penetrating analyses The book is organized into 5 sections each a reflection of a major research period in Bickerton s career Section 1 Identifying Creoles Section 2 Language Variation Section 3 Creole Processes Section 4 Creole Syntax and Semantics Section 5 Serial Verbs

Development and Structure of Creole Languages Francis Byrne, Thom Huebner, 1991 Creoles, their Substrates, and Language Typology Claire Lefebvre, 2011-02-17 Since creole languages draw their properties from both their substrate and superstrate sources the typological classification of creoles has long been a major issue for creolists typologists and linguists in general Several contradictory proposals have been put forward in the literature For example creole languages typologically pair with their superstrate languages Chaudenson 2003 with their substrate languages Lefebvre 1998 or even creole languages are alike Bickerton 1984 such that they constitute a definable typological class McWhorter 1998 This book contains 25 chapters bearing on detailed comparisons of some 30 creoles and their substrate languages As the substrate languages of these creoles are typologically different the detailed investigation of substrate features in the creoles leads to a particular answer to the question of how creoles should be classified typologically The bulk of the data show that creoles reproduce the typological features of their substrate languages This argues that creoles cannot be claimed to constitute a definable typological class EBOOK: Developmental Psychology, 2e Patrick Leman, Andy Bremner, 2019-01-23 EBOOK Developmental Psychology 2e Speakers and Structures in Language Contact Barbara Hans-Bianchi, Chiara

Truppi, Barbara Vogt, 2024-07-22 This book is a collection of innovative studies on language contact. It contains novel works on unexplored issues related to language contact in different settings and aims to contribute multi-perspective insights to the current state of the art on language contact. Novel approaches to contact-related change, variation, attrition, and emergence of new varieties are explored from the lens of sociolinguistic, typological, synchronic, and diachronic perspectives. The contact settings vary from official and majority languages to minority, endangered, and/or non-official varieties in different parts of the world.

Retelling the Caribbean Laura Ekberg, 2025-09-26 Retelling the Caribbean examines heterolingualism in Anglophone Caribbean novels and their Finnish translations. Heterolingualism, such as various types of code switching, is utilised by many Caribbean authors to represent the linguistic multiplicity of Caribbean cultures. Switching between different languages is a natural part of communication in Caribbean communities. Consequently, issues of language and cultural representation have become an integral part of the Caribbean literary tradition. This study is located at an intersection between the notion of intercultural translation employed in Postcolonial Studies and the notion of interlingual translation that is at the centre of Translation Studies, examining both the original novels and their Finnish translations as forms of translation. The book maps the strategies used by the Finnish translators of these heterolingual texts, comparing them to the strategies used by the authors in the representation of Caribbean language and culture in the original literary works. Through textual analysis of works spanning five decades of translated Anglophone Caribbean fiction in Finnish, as well as translator interviews, the book sheds light on some of the central issues related to cultural representation in the translation of heterolingual literary works.

Contact Languages Mark Sebba, 1997-05-19 Contact Languages: Pidgins and Creoles aims to introduce the reader to the exciting and important field of pidgin and creole studies. The book deals with the linguistic, historical, and social aspects of the development of pidgin and creole languages. Detailed case studies of individual pidgins and creoles are based around texts drawn from a range of different types and contexts, mainly contemporary, with discussion and grammatical notes. Chapters are interspersed with exercises to consolidate and develop the reader's understanding.
