

Table 1.6 Summary of most important developmental perspectives

PERSPECTIVE	KEY ASSUMPTIONS	SPECIFIC THEORIES
Biological	Development is determined by biological factors	Maturation theory: emphasises development as the natural unfolding of a biological plan Ethological theory: emphasises the survival value of many behaviours. These behaviours are inherited but some kinds of learning have to occur at certain critical periods Evolutionary theory: emphasises that children and parents' behaviour adapt over generations to meet specific environmental challenges
Psychodynamic	Development is determined primarily by how a child resolves (mainly unconsciously) conflicts at different ages	Freud's theory: emphasises the conflict between primitive biological forces and societal standards for right and wrong Erikson's theory: emphasises the challenges posed by the formation of trust, autonomy, initiative, industry, and identity
Learning theory	Development is determined primarily by a child's environment	Skinner's operant conditioning: emphasises the role of reinforcement and punishment Bandura's social cognitive theory: emphasises children's efforts to understand their world, using reinforcement, punishment, and others' behaviour
Cognitive developmental	Development reflects children's efforts to understand the world	Piaget's theory: emphasises the different stages of thinking that result from children's changing theories of the world
Contextual	Development is influenced by immediate and more distant environments, which typically influence one another	Vygotsky's theory: emphasises the role of parents (and other adults) in developing skills and conveying culture to the next generation Bronfenbrenner's theory: emphasises the reciprocal influences of the microsystem, mesosystem, exosystem and macrosystem
African	Development is holistic and collectivistic, and is spiritually and socially driven	Nsamenang's theory: views development as a social ontogenesis because it unfolds within a culture. Identifies 3 phases of selfhood and 7 phases in the social selfhood

Developmental Perspectives:

Developmental Perspectives on Motivation Janis E. Jacobs, 1993-01-01 Some of the best current work on the development of motivation is presented in this fortieth volume of the Nebraska Symposium on Motivation The diverse approaches for conceptualizing and studying motivational development psychology that extends the traditional area of achievement motivation Some major themes emerge the conceptualization of the self the internal and external factors that affect development of motivations and the choices that result from one s motivations Richard Ryan s opening chapter places the entire work in context by describing historical and theoretical perspectives on developmental and psychosocial models used to understand motivation Mihaly Csikszentmihaly and Kevin Rathunde also focus on intrinsic motivation but with a greater focus on flow the experience of full involvement with an activity Susan Harter discusses the roles of the I self and the me self research models Jacquelynne S Eccles stresses the link between the social contexts of family and school and the motivational constructs related to achievement and choice of activity Laura L Carstensen maintains Eccles s focus on the importance of choice of activity but concentrates on the later stages in life when social contact declines as a result of changing social and emotional motivations The volume concludes with a summary analyzing the contributors descriptions of the diverse but complementary aspects of developmental processes and theory

The Self in Time Chris Moore, Karen Lemmon, Karen Skene, 2001-05-01 Human reasoning is marked by an ability to remember one s personal past and to imagine one s future Together these capacities rely on the notion of a temporally extended self or the self in time Recent evidence suggests that it is during the preschool period that children first construct this form of self By about four years of age children can remember events from their pasts and reconstruct a personal narrative integrating these events They know that past events in which they participated affect present circumstances They can also imagine the future and make decisions designed to bring about desirable future events even in the face of competing immediate gratification This book brings together the leading researchers on these issues and for the first time in literature illustrates how a unified approach based on the idea of a temporally extended self can integrate these topics

Developmental Psychopathology and Its Treatment Ellen D. Nannis, Philip A. Cowan, 1988      Contemporary Perspectives on Adult Development and Aging Alicia Skinner Cook, 1983 Abstract A college textbook addresses modern views concerning societal and cultural factors practices and policies concerning a variety of aspects that are encountered in adult development and aging process Following an introductory section on developmental theory age norms and expectations the remaining 10 chapters of the text are grouped among 4 principal themes 1 family and work as primary roles of adulthood 2 continuity and changes with respect to intelligence learning creativity adult sexuality mental and physical health issues longevity death and dying 3 cultural variations and issues during aging covering various ethnic groups and 4 mechanisms for enhancing the adult years including the US government's role in quality of life improvement The developmental stages of early middle and late adulthood are each considered within each of the topics addressed wz      Economic Development Perspectives: Enterprise and employment in industry, 1991      Developmental Perspectives on Embodiment and Consciousness Willis Overton, Ulrich Mueller, Judith Newman, 2012 First Published in 2007 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company      Presidential Leadership in Political Time Stephen Skowronek, 2008 Renowned scholar Stephen Skowronek's insights have fundamentally altered our understanding of the American presidency His seminal works have identified broad historical patterns in American politics and explained the dynamics at work behind them His political time thesis has been particularly influential revealing how presidents reckon with the work of their predecessors situate their power within recent political events and assert their authority to change things In this new book Skowronek revisits his political time thesis and focuses on how it helps us make sense of the presidencies of Bill Clinton and George W Bush The essays some of which predate his book The Politics Presidents Make some of which followed it and one of which is wholly original to this volume make his arguments about the politics of leadership generally accessible while also drawing them forward and highlighting new issues for our times Skowronek explains the typical political problems that presidents confront in political time as well as the likely effects of their working through them This allows him to draw out parallels in the politics of leadership between Andrew Jackson and Franklin Roosevelt and between James Polk and John Kennedy and to develop a new and revealing perspective on the leadership of George W Bush All along the way Skowronek considers contemporary innovations in the American political system that bear on the leadership patterns he draws from the more distant past The impact of the 24 hour news cycle of a more disciplined and homogeneous Republican party of conservative advocacy of the unitary theory of the executive and of progressive disillusionment with the presidency all come under fresh scrutiny A provocative review of presidential history Skowronek s book brims with fresh insights and opens a window on the institution of the executive office and the workings of the American political system as a whole Intellectually satisfying for scholars it also provides an accessible volume for students and general readers interested in the American presidency Publisher
