Trade and Structural Change in Pacific Asia Colin I. Bradford, Jr., William H. Branson, 2007-12-01 The rapid development of Pacific Asia over the past twenty years offers an excellent opportunity to analyze the dynamics of economic growth Trade and Structural Change in Pacific Asia explores the nature and causes of changes that have occurred in the economic structure of Pacific Asia the relationship between these changes and economic growth and the implications of these changes for trading relationships Themes in the research reported here includes the sectoral composition of output and trade rates of structural change in production and exports and their relation to economic growth the effect of abundant resource endowments on industrialization and manufactured exports the nature of the mix between active government policies and market forces and the balance between demand determined and supply determined industrialization and exports Many of the issues explored have important implications for United States foreign economic policy and the volume includes a look at the basic economic and political forces influencing shifts in United States trade policy in the postwar period A timely and informative analysis the volume probes the causes and consequences of economic growth in Pacific Asia focusing on the interaction of exports of manufactured goods and the developmental process The results reported contribute to ongoing research in structural change and economic policy and will be important to economists working on empirical patterns in international trade and the process of economic development

Structural Transformation as Development Anis Chowdhury, Zulfan Tadjoeiddin, Yogi Vidyattama, 2025-01-21 This book evaluates development progress using the lens of structural transformation in four groups of developing countries Africa's least developed countries LDCs Asia's LDCs landlocked Central Asian countries and Pacific small island states The analysis presented is contextualized in the diverse economic characteristics and geopolitical landscape of the four categories of countries It emphasises critical binding factors unique for each category Therefore the chapter on Africa's LDCs emphasises their path dependence determined by colonial exploitation and maintained through neo colonial arrangements The chapter on Asia's LDCs highlights their democratic deficits and influences of geopolitical rivalries among global and regional powers The chapter on landlocked Central Asian countries focuses more on the unique transition experience of those countries coming out from USSR hinterlands to independent states in the wake of the third wave of democratisation in the 1990s Lastly the evaluation of Pacific small island states is very much influenced by the fate of geography for being small in size and remotely located The diverse coverage offers readers rich political economy explanations of varied but largely poor structural transformation experiences The book is nontechnical with descriptive narrative and analytical approaches on
