Development In A Divided World:

Development in a Divided World, 1970 Development in a Divided World Dudley Seers, Leonard Joy, 1971 A Radical History of Development Studies Uma Kothari, 2016-12-15 In this book some of the leading thinkers in development studies trace the history of their multi disciplinary subject from the late colonial period and its establishment during decolonization all the way through to its contemporary concerns with poverty reduction They present a critical genealogy of development by looking at the contested evolution and roles of development institutions and exploring changes in development discourses These recollections by those who teach research and practise development challenge simplistic unilinear periodizations of the evolution of the discipline and draw attention to those ongoing critiques of development studies including Marxism feminism and postcolonialism which so often have been marginalized in mainstream development discourse The contributors combine personal and institutional reflections with an examination of key themes including gender and development NGOs and natural resource management The book is radical in that it challenges orthodoxies of development theory and practice and highlights concealed critical discourses that have been written out of conventional stories of development The contributors provide different versions of the history of development by inscribing their experiences and interpretations some from left inclined intellectual perspectives Their accounts elucidate a more complex and nuanced understanding of development studies over time simultaneously revealing common themes and trends and they also attempt to reposition Development Studies along a more critical trajectory The volume is intended to stimulate new thinking on where the discipline may be moving It ought also to be of great use to students coming to grips with the historical continuities and divergences in the theory and practice of development Report Institute of Development Studies (Brighton, England), 1970 Development in a divided world, edited by Dudley Seers and Leonard Joy Dudley George SEERS (and JOY (Leonard)), 1971 Agricultural Practices for Sustaining Mankind Bimalendu Bhattacharya, 2023-01-01 The major concern of this book is to focus on the contrasting situation represented by the agricultural practices of the smallholder farming population on the one hand and industrial agriculture practised by giant corporate houses on the other considering the former s ability to meet the growing requirement of food by the global population The contest between these two widely different sectors favours smallholder farmers as they derive impetus from a greater reliance on the role of research and development in support of a process of greater intensification They overcome the hurdles of competition from industrial farming by concentrating on mitigating the effects of climate change through a sustainable process Their methods confirm that they will be able to meet the growing demand for food in the future without impairing the environment This is in sharp contrast to the dangerous implications of industrial agriculture which impacts negatively on our environment and jeopardises the future of humanity Effectiveness and Reform of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) Stephan Klingebiel, 1999 This study is intended as a constructive contribution to the debate on the reform of UN development co operation

Economic Growth and Sustainable Development Peter N. Hess,2016-05-26

Economic growth reflected in increases in national output per capita makes possible an improved material standard of living and the alleviation of poverty Sustainable development popularly and concisely defined as meeting the needs of the present generations without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs directly addresses the utilization of natural resources the state of the environment and intergenerational equity Now in its second edition Economic Growth and Sustainable Development features expanded discussion of income distribution social capital and the insights of behavioural economics for climate change mitigation Boxed case studies have been added which explore the impact of economic growth on people and countries in both the developed and developing world This text addresses the following fundamental questions What causes economic growth Why do some countries grow faster than others What accounts for the extraordinary growth in the world's population over the past two centuries What are the current trends in population and will these trends continue How do we measure sustainable development and is sustainable development compatible with economic growth Why is climate change the greatest market failure of all time What can be done to mitigate climate change and global warming With a blend of formal models empirical evidence history and policy this text provides a coherent and comprehensive treatment of economic growth and sustainable development It is suitable for those who study development economics sustainable

International Development Policy Gilles Carbonnier,2012-03-06

International development cooperation is undergoing a revolution in order to cope with global challenges that cut across the rich poor and

North South divides Beyond the fight against poverty development aid is called upon to address global public goods While intergovernmental negotiations stall bilateral and multilateral aid agencies boast to tackle climate change food insecurity water and energy scarcity pandemics armed conflicts and disasters in weak states migrations etc The emergence of new aid actors radically alters the traditional aid architecture and approaches The increasing number of poor living in middle income countries makes poverty alleviation more of a political than a technical endeavour The book examines how this profoundly affects international development cooperation It questions how far bilateral and multilateral aid agencies succeed in mainstreaming global issues in their operations It assesses how emerging and traditional donors address competing objectives often with diverging rationales Publisher description

From Land Disputes to Sustainable Environmental Development Ozay Mehmet, Vedat Yorucu, 2024-04-20 This book is written to transform land disputes toward win win outcomes utilizing the latest sustainable development theory Land has always been a source of conflict a contest of competing homelands and ideologies but it can also act as an agency of peace making promoting economic and social development This dualism will be the theme of this book as there is a dearth of studies exclusively focused on land The book's coverage is comprehensive examining land and property disputes with case studies in modern times along with a problem solving approach utilizing such economic theorems as Location and Growth Poles theories The UN's Sustainable Development Goals will be used as our overarching framework The overall aim of the book is to transform land disputes toward win win outcomes utilizing latest sustainable development theory
