

National Ambient Air Quality Standards

The Clean Air Act, which was last amended in 1990, requires the EPA to set National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS) for pollutants that are considered harmful to human and environmental health. There are two types of national ambient air quality standards: primary standards, provide public health protection and secondary standards, provide public welfare protection.

The EPA has set NAAQS for six criteria pollutants. The standards are listed below and are subject to be reviewed and revised. Units of measure for the standards are parts per million (ppm) by volume, parts per billion (ppb) by volume, and micrograms per cubic meter of air ($\mu\text{g}/\text{m}^3$).

Pollutant		Primary/Secondary	Averaging Time	Level	Form
