Basic Processes in Reading David LaBerge, S. Jay Samuels, 2017-03-27 Originally published in 1977 this volume contains the most recent theoretical views and experimental findings by prominent psychologists at the time working in areas they considered to be most basic to the reading processes The material will still be of value to people interested in applied and basic aspects of reading as well as those concerned with language processing and information processing in general The volume divides conveniently into two areas perception and comprehension The initial chapters deal with the perceptual processes involved in reading The second half of the volume delves into the area of comprehension The interested reader will find a wide variety of topics covered in the volume that reflect the amazingly wide range of cognitive functions that are part of the reading process

Basic Processes in Early Second Language Reading Esther Geva, Ludo Verhoeven, 2014-08-27 The four articles in this issue represent recent developments in the study of basic processes in L2 reading at the primary level The research reported reflects the array of theoretical and instructional issues targeted currently by researchers who wish to understand L2 reading development in young children Ultimately this research should be used to help policymakers and educators make better informed decisions about how L2 literacy instruction can be enhanced across various sociocultural and linguistic boundaries

Literacy Beyond Text Comprehension M. Anne Britt, Jean-François Rouet, Amanda Durik, 2017-07-06 Literacy Beyond Text Comprehension aims to systematically investigate how readers interpret reading tasks within a situation and how that interpretation influences reading behavior and comprehension Presenting a new model of REading as problem SOLVing RESOLV the authors describe reading comprehension in terms of how a reader adopts goals within a particular situation that then guide what is read when and how By applying the RESOLV model to a range of reading situations this book provides evidence to suggest that there is no unitary understanding of a task because individuals bring their own goals and characteristics to the situation as such it demonstrates the importance of understanding how a reader e.g. student, test taker, employee completing a work task represents the context and the specific assignment. Written by internationally recognized learning sciences scholars, Literacy Beyond Text Comprehension advances the state of the art in reading research but also seeks to inform a broader range of audiences including those interested in the teaching and the assessment of reading.

The Primary School Annie Egerton Moore, 1925

The Advanced Montessori Method Maria Montessori, 1917

The Development of Reading Skills Thomas H. Carr, 1985

Focusing on how children learn to read in a language they have previously only spoken, this book illustrates the skill theory of reading development which encompasses both new perceptual processes and modified but familiar integrative cognitive processes of language comprehension. The chapters discuss the following aspects of learning to read:

1. phonemic analysis, spelling and reading
2. literacy background and reading development in a second language
3. knowing words and understanding texts
4. discourse structure and mental models
5. the impact of classroom activities on beginning reading development
6. using component skills analysis to integrate findings on reading development and
7. bridging the gap between theory and practice in reading.

The final chapter lists several journals that publish high quality research on reading and a number of books that provide systematic introduction to the area of reading.
