ELexicography in the 21st Century : New Challenges, New Applications Sylviane Granger, 2010-06 The field of lexicography is undergoing a major revolution. The rapid replacement of the traditional paper dictionary by electronic dictionaries opens up exciting possibilities but also constitutes a major challenge to the field. The eLexicography in the 21st Century New Challenges New Applications conference organized by the Centre for English Corpus Linguistics of the Universit catholique de Louvain in October 2009 aimed to bring together the many researchers around the world who are working in the fast developing field of electronic lexicography and to act as a showcase for the latest lexicographic developments and software solutions in the field. The conference attracted both academics and industrial partners from 30 different countries who presented electronic dictionary projects dealing with no less than 22 languages. The resulting proceedings volume bears witness to the tremendous vitality and diversity of research in the field. The volume covers a wide range span of topics including the use of language resources for lexicographic purposes in the form of lexical databases like WordNet or corpora of different types, innovative changes to the dictionary structure afforded by the electronic medium in particular multiple access routes and efficient integration of phraseology, specialised dictionaries e.g. SMS dictionaries, sign language dictionaries, automated customisation of dictionaries in function of users' needs, exploitation of Natural Language Processing tools, integration of electronic dictionaries into language learning and teaching.

Biomedical English Isabel Verdaguer, Natalia Judith Laso, Danica Salazar, 2013-06-15 The corpus based studies in this volume explore biomedical research writing in English from a variety of perspectives. The articles in this collection delve into the lexicographic issues involved in building an electronic database of collocations and lexical bundles, offer insight on the teaching and learning of prototypical multiword units of meaning in biomedical discourse, and view written scientific English through the lens of such diverse fields as phraseology, metaphor, gender, and discourse analysis. The research presented in this book forms the theoretical and methodological foundation of SciE Lex, a lexical database of collocations and prefabricated expressions designed to help scientists write scientific papers in English accurately. The concluding chapter on FrameNet addresses frame semantics, whose application to the cross linguistic study of scientific language will open new and promising avenues of research in the study of specialized languages.

Recent Advances in Multiword Units in Machine Translation and Translation Technology Johanna Monti, Gloria Corpas Pastor, Ruslan Mitkov, Carlos Manuel Hidalgo-Tertero, 2024-11-15 The investigation of phraseology through corpus based and computational approaches holds significant relevance for various professionals including translators interpreters terminologists lexicographers language instructors and learners Computational Phraseology and in particular the computational analysis of multiword expressions also known as multiword units has gained prominence in recent years and is essential for a number of Natural Language Processing and Translation Technology applications The failure to detect these units automatically could result in incorrect and problematic automatic translations and could hinder the performance of applications such as text summarisation and web search Against this background the volume offers 13 articles carefully selected and organised into two parts Computational treatment of multiword units and Corpus based and linguistic studies in phraseology The contributions not only highlight the latest advancements in computational and corpus based phraseology but also reiterate its vital role in all areas of language technologies including basic and applied research
