Connecting Our World Winnie Tang, Jan Selwood, 2003 Examining a dozen of the most innovative ways that GIS web services are being disseminated to and drawn from around the world this book encompasses national mapping service delivery in New Zealand digital map creation for on the run journalists in the United States and location based services in Scandinavia This is a guide for forward thinking managers in any enterprise who are interested in fully leveraging the power of spatial data and information Discussed is how increasing integration of GIS into the decision making processes of government administrative academic and commercial organizations highlights the importance of ensuring that everyone is working from the same consistent data sets

Amazonian Floodplain Forests Wolfgang J. Junk, Maria T. F. Piedade, Florian Wittmann, Jochen Schöngart, Pia Parolin, 2010-09-27 Central Amazonian floodplain forests are an unique and endangered ecosystem The forests grow in areas that are annually flooded by large rivers during mean periods of up to 8 months and at depths of up to 10 m Despite this severe stress these forests consist of over 1 000 species and are by far the most species rich floodplain forests worldwide The trees show a broad range of morphological anatomical physiological and phenological adaptations that enable them not only to survive the adverse environmental conditions but also to produce large amounts of biomass when the nutrient levels in water and soils are sufficiently high This is the case in the floodplains of white water rivers which are used for fisheries agriculture and cattle ranching but which also have a high potential for the production of timber and non timber products when adequately managed Latest research on ecophysiology gives insight how tree species adapt to the oscillating flood pulse focusing on their photosynthesis respiration sap flow biochemistry phenology wood and leaf anatomy root morphology and functioning fruit chemistry seed germination seedling establishment nitrogen fixation and genetic variability Based on tree ages lifetime growth rates and net primary production new concepts are developed to improve the sustainability of traditional forest managements in the background of an integrated natural resource management This is the first integrative book on the functioning and ecologically oriented use of floodplain forests in the tropics and sub tropics It provides fundamental knowledge for scientist students foresters and other professionals on their distribution evolution and phytogeography This book is an excellent testimony to the interdisciplinary collaboration of a group of very dedicated scientists to unravel the functioning of the Amazonian Floodplain forests They have brought together a highly valuable contribution on the distribution ecology primary production ecophysiology typology biodiversity and human use of these forests offering recommendations for sustainable management and future projects in science and development of these unique wetland ecosystems It lays a solid scientific foundation for wetland ecologists foresters environmentalists wetland managers and all those interested in sustainable management in the tropics and subtropics Brij Gopal Executive Vice President International Society for Limnology SIL
