The Future of Cancer Surveillance Research Philip Rosenberg, Jonas Almeida, 2026-02-06

Cancer Surveillance Research CSR is an observational science of cancer data ascertained in population based cohorts notably cancer registries CSR is used to track cancer incidence mortality burden prevalence and survivorship quantify cancer differences inform cancer control programs test hypotheses uncover etiologic clues gauge effectiveness of screening and therapy and characterize cancer's natural history and its evolution over time To date most CSR studies have relied on a limited set of non parametric statistical tools applied to relatively small datasets Currently attempts to scale such studies are surprisingly labor intensive and require specialized expertise Advances in biostatistics and data science have the potential to usher in a golden age where more data and better data are universally accessible contemporary methods from biostatistics and data science are rapidly and freely deployable and current knowledge more readily mined to inform both cancer control and cancer research The aim of this research topic is to show how to get there the golden age from the here and now There are three pieces to the equation for advancement data statistics and hypotheses

- 1 How can information technology and data science facilitate access to and integration of public use cancer data in a format suitable for novel studies of cancer incidence mortality and survivorship How can associated demographic and risk factors data be integrated with cancer surveillance data into the workflows
- 2 Can advances in non parametric statistics and mathematical models especially age period cohort models provide a unified framework for descriptive and hypothesis based analysis of cancer trends and patterns
- 3 How can information technology and data science help researchers interrogate synthesize and statistically analyze cancer data to inform etiological hypotheses and cancer control programs As well we aim to highlight why this effort is important
- 4 What are the big questions in CSR Which current trends and patterns are most concerning How is cancer evolving within and between countries and populations stratified by factors including human development indices race ethnicity ancestry sex age location and risk factor profiles
