The Mass Audience James Webster, Patricia F. Phalen, 2013-11-05 In the early 20th century a new and distinctive concept of the audience rose to prominence The audience was seen as a mass a large collection of people mostly unknown to one another that was unified through exposure to media This construct offered a pragmatic way to map audiences that was relevant to industry government and social theorists In a relatively short period of time it became the dominant model for studying the audience Today it is so pervasive that most people simply take it for granted Recently media scholars have reopened inquiry into the meaning of audience They question the utility of the mass audience concept characterizing it as insensitive to differences among audience members inescapably bound up with discredited notions of mass society or serving only a narrow set of industrial interests The authors of this volume find that these assertions are often false and unwarranted either by the historical record or by contemporary industry practice Instead they argue for a rediscovery of the dominant model by summarizing and critiquing the very considerable body of literature on audience behavior and by demonstrating different ways of analyzing mass audiences Further they provide a framework for understanding the future of the audience in the new media environment and suggest how the concept of mass audience can illuminate research on media effects cultural studies and media policy

Books in Print, 1994 Advertising to Children M. Carole Macklin, Les Carlson, 1999-07-16 Children represent a valuable target audience for advertisers with over 200 billion in direct purchases and influenced spending However questions exist about both the effectiveness of marketing to children as well as the impact this advertising has on the children themselves Current debates over smoking and alcohol consumption highlight this issue from all perspectives marketers parents and policymakers Advertising to Children presents cutting edge research designed to stimulate and inform this debate Well known authors contribute their perspectives with chapters organized in sections to address what children know and think about advertising how advertising works with children and what issues are at the forefront of societal and public policy thinking Editors M Carole Macklin and Les Carlson have lead research in this field and lend their expertise More than just a litany of hot topics this book provides a wide angle lens on the field with insights from advertising marketing communication and psychology Media Entertainment Dolf Zillmann,Peter Vorderer,2000-05 This collection of essays covers all essential aspects of media entertainment written in a non technical style for appeal to scholars in communication and psychology as well as to students at mid to advanced levels of study Television, a Guide to the Literature Mary B.
