After the Berlin Wall Christopher Hilton, 2011-11-30 On 7 May 1945 Grand Admiral Donitz named in Hitler's will as head of state authorised the unconditional surrender of all German forces to the Allies on the following day World War II in Europe was at an end But many of the German people would continue to endure hardships as both the country and the capital were to be divided between France the UK and the USA in the west and the USSR in the east East and West Germany and East and West Berlin would remain divided until 1989 By October 1990 however the two countries were reunited and the Berlin Reichstag was once again the seat of government Here politicians would put East and West back together again marrying a totalitarian atheist communist system with a democratic Christian capitalist one How did this marriage affect the everyday life of ordinary Germans How did combining two telephone systems two postal services hospitals farm land property industry railways and roads work How were women's rights welfare pensions trades unions arts rents and housing affected There had been no warning of this marriage and no preparation for it and no country had ever tried putting two completely opposite systems together before This is the story of what happened in the words of the people it happened to the people's story of an incredible unification

The Watches of the Sacred Passion with Before and After Peter Gallwey,1896 Stories Without Borders Julia Sonnevend,2016-09-09 How do stories of particular events turn into global myths while others fade away What becomes known and seen as a global iconic event In Stories without Borders Julia Sonnevend considers the ways in which we recount and remember news stories of historic significance Focusing on journalists covering the fall of the Berlin Wall and on subsequent retellings of the event in a variety of ways from Legoland reenactments to slabs of the Berlin Wall installed in global cities Sonnevend discusses how certain events become built up so that people in many parts of the world remember them for long periods of time She argues that five dimensions determine the viability and longevity of international news events First a foundational narrative must be established with certain preconditions Next the established narrative becomes universalized and a mythical message developed This message is then condensed and encapsulated in a simple phrase a short narrative and a recognizable visual scene Counter narratives emerge that reinterpret events and in turn facilitate their diffusion across multiple media platforms and changing social and political contexts Sonnevend examines these five elements through the developments of November 9 1989 what came to be known as the fall of the Berlin Wall Stories Without Borders concludes with a discussion of how global iconic events have an enduring effect on individuals and societies pointing out that after common currencies military alliances and international courts have failed stories may be all that we have to bring hope and unity
