Britain A Future That Works:

Skills Policy in Britain and the Future of Work Tom Bewick, 2025-10-29 What role did Winston Churchill play in excluding comprehensive schooling from the 1944 Education Act What was the failed promise of technical education in the post war period Why did Margaret Thatcher manipulate government training programmes before the 1987 General Election And what was the fallout of Tony Blair s government over lifelong learning In this book Tom Bewick examines the evolution of UK skills policy from the 1881 Royal Commission on Technical Instruction to the present day revealing how shifting political ideologies have shaped workforce development He applies a chronological historical political policy analysis framework to explain the four training states of skills policy and workforce development between the 1940s and the 2020s The interventionist state 1939 1979 The laissez faire state 1980 1988 Localism and the devolved states 1989 2010 The technocratic state 2010 present Traversing time periods to uncover political and economic driving forces this book challenges conventional thinking and offers insights into how future skills policies can be more effective Education, Training and the Future of Work I John Ahier, Geoff Esland, 2013-10-18 A central claim of this volume is that public policy in education and training can only be properly understood if it is seen in relation to prevailing economic and employment conditions It has become increasingly apparent that the neo liberal economic policies pursued by Western governments during the 1980s and 1990s have led to a growing world wide work crisis Unemployment levels particularly in Europe remain persistently high and for those in employment job insecurity and long working hours have become the norm The response of UK governments has been to promote flexibility in employment practices while proclaiming the importance of improving skill levels through education and training This volume challenges the adequacy of such an approach and asks whether reliance on education and training reforms without additional political intervention in economic processes is capable of reversing current trends Issues covered in this reader include the impact of globalization on employment trends neo liberal and neo Keynesian approaches to employment policy political reforms in education and training institutions the impact of flexibilization on private life and the family The two volumes in this series are readers for the Open University course Education Training and the Future of Work E837 a module of the MA in Education The companion volume is Education Training and the Future of Work II Developments in Vocational Education and Training John Ahier is Lecturer in Education at the Open University Geoff Esland is Director of the Centre for Sociology and Social Research at the Open University and Course team Chair of E837 Britain Bernard D. Nossiter, 1978 The Handbook for the Future of Work Julie MacLeavy, Frederick Harry Pitts, 2024-12-26 The Handbook for the Future of Work offers a timely and critical analysis of the transformative forces shaping work and employment in the twenty first century Focusing on the past two decades the handbook explores how technological advancements automation and a shifting capitalist landscape have fundamentally reshaped work practices and labour relations Beyond simply outlining the challenges and opportunities of automation the handbook integrates these emerging realities with established discussions of work. Importantly it moves beyond dominant technology centric narratives probing into broader questions about the nature of capitalism in a time of crisis and the contestation for alternative economic models. With contributions from established and emerging authors based in institutions around the world the handbook offers a systematic overview of the developments that have sparked radical shifts in how we live and work and their multifaceted impacts upon social relations and identities practices and sectors politics and environments. The handbook is unique in its exploration of the potential for economic transformations to reshape the centrality of work in our social and political imaginaries. A useful resource for students and researchers the handbook serves as an essential guide to this new intellectual landscape.

Muslims in Britain Peter Hopkins, 2009-03-31 Following the events of 11th September 2001 in the USA and more especially the bombings on the London underground on 7th July 2005 and the incident at Glasgow Airport on 30th June 2007 an increasing amount of public attention has been focused upon Muslims in Britain. Against the backdrop of this debate this book sets out a series of innovative insights into the everyday lives of Muslims living in contemporary Britain in an attempt to move beyond prevalent stereotypes concerning what it means to be Muslim. Combining original empirical research with theoretical interventions this collection offers a range of reflections on how Muslims in Britain negotiate their everyday lives manage experiences of racism and exclusion and develop local networks and global connections. The authors explore a broad range of themes including gender relations educational and economic issues migration and mobility religion and politics racism and Islamophobia and the construction and contestation of Muslim identities. Threaded through the treatment of these themes is a unifying concern with the ways in which geography matters to how Muslims negotiate their daily experiences as well as their racialised gendered and religious identities. Above all attention is focused upon the role of the home and local community the influence of the economy and the nation and the power of transnational connections and mobilities in the everyday lives of Muslims in Britain.
