Coping with Disablement, 1979 A Woman's Guide to Coping with Disability, 1997 Coping with Disablement
Edith Rudinger, 1976 Coping with Disablement Consumers' Association, Edith Rudinger, 1974 A Woman's Guide to Coping with Disability, 2000

Despite the recent increased interest in women's health little has been written about and for disabled women. This outstanding new source meets a genuine need by providing an overview of all aspects of women's lives and how disability affects them as workers, homemakers, parents, and caregivers. Necessities such as driving, obtaining adequate medical care, enjoying recreation and travel, as well as personal concerns related to sexuality, pregnancy, and childbirth are all addressed. The guide covers federal laws, housing, coping with daily activities at home and in the workplace, and the most common conditions that disable women: arthritis, diabetes, epilepsy, lupus, multiple sclerosis, osteoporosis, and spinal cord injury. Each chapter contains a bibliography or sources cited in the text, a referral list of organizations, and a resource list of books, audio, and videotapes, and vendors of assistive devices. Quotes from disabled women illustrate their coping skills and the impact of their conditions on their lives.

Barbara M. Bibel, Oakland P. L. Cal. Library Journal Coping with Disability Inventory Madhav R. Kulkarni, 1985 Physical Disability, a Psychosocial Approach Beatrice Ann Wright, Beatrice Ann Posner Wright, 1983 Welfare Research Fiona William, Jennie Popay, Ann Oakley, 2005-08-12

First published in 1998, this book attempts to contribute a new framework for social research in the welfare field. As such, it engages with new theories, new approaches, and new methods alongside a constructive critique of both the old and the new. It attempts to illustrate approaches to conceptualization and operationalization within policy-relevant research to reflect and explore both new thinking in social theory and in welfare policy, as well as to maintain a connection with old concerns. Our concern is with welfare research, both theory and method, broadly defined as the wider landscape of policy and provision captured in the past, at least by the notion of the welfare state. The new thinking with which the book is primarily concerned involves a shift away from seeing people as the passive beneficiaries of welfare provided through state interventions and professional expertise, and from seeing them as fixed, single social categories of poor, old, single parent, or as one-dimensional, objective socio-economic classifications.
