Creating A Perfect World:

Free Will and Theism Kevin Timpe, Daniel Speak, 2016-04-29 Concerns both about the nature of free will and about the credibility of theistic belief and commitment have long preoccupied philosophers In addition there can be no denying that the history of philosophical inquiry into these two issues has been dynamic and at least to some degree integrated In a great many cases classical treatments of one have influenced classical treatments of the other and in a variety of ways Without pretending to be able to trace all the historical integrations of these treatments there is no real question that these philosophical interrelations exist and are worthy of further exploration In addition contemporary discussions contain more than a few hints of suspicion that theistic belief is adversely affecting the purity of inquiry into contours of human free will Nevertheless until now there has been no volume systematically exploring the relationship between religious beliefs and various accounts of free will in the contemporary domain With a particular eye on how the former might be either legitimately or illegitimately affecting the latter this collection fills an important gap in the current debate Here sixteen leading philosophers focus their attention on a crucial point of intellectual intersection with surprising and illuminating results sexuality In this book architecture critic and curator Aaron Betsky takes a look at the man made world and concludes that it is just that made by men and not women The structure of buildings and the layout of cities in the modern world have almost always been determined by men and the abstract and alien order of grids and columns that has resulted imprisons us in a way of living based on repression and in some cases oppression By contrast it is women who create the interior spaces within these man created environments Comfortable beautiful seductive and logical these interiors act as areas of escape self definition and sometimes even revelation Drawing on a wide range of architectural examples from African mud huts to modern apartment complexes Betsky explores what effects this division of architectural labor has had on our sensibilities and indeed on how we relate to one another as men and women He believes that although it has always been thus we do not have to live within this dichotomy between the exterior and the interior the made and the lived the masculine and the feminine forever It is possible says Betsky to create spaces of liberation spaces in which we can re construct our selves and our world
