Basildon Plotlands:

A Portrait of Basildon Plotlands Deanna Walker, 2010-09-01 The former plotlands around Laindon and Dunton are still held dear in the memories of many of their former residents. Most of the grassy lanes have since been swallowed up by new housing but the combination of archive material with the recollections and photographs of those who once made the plotlands their home will bring back to life the period from the 1930s to the advent of Basildon Development Corporation in the 1950s when the plotland population was its highest. Although the memories of those who owned weekend huts are included the focus is on the permanent residents who were here all year round. They couldn't depart for London when the mud reached the tops of their boots, the milkman's cart got stuck in a rut and the standpipes were frozen solid. Some had fled the London blitz but now found themselves under attack in the Essex countryside. Material from Lord Leatherland's estate shows how the Parish Invasion Committee helped plotlanders prepare for possible invasion and even held an exercise to test their preparations. Coverage includes plotland lanes in the west of Laindon, an area that has received little attention so far. Documentary evidence reveals just how the Corporation tackled the thorny question of what to do with the shack dwellers. For the unmade roads lined with self-built bungalows were home to those who coped without the basic mains services that were generally being taken for granted. Other hazards included adders, bulls, spiders in the loo, vicious dogs, disappearing bread, shotgun pellets and arson attacks. And yet the plotlands inspire enormous nostalgia and those who recall with pleasure the hot tea and blackberries they once enjoyed here will find a great deal in this delightful book to amuse them.

A House Through Time David Olusoga, Melanie Backe-Hansen, 2020-05-14 A very readable history of the British way of life viewed through its homes. Choice Magazine. In recent years, house histories have become the new frontier of popular participatory history. People, many of whom have already embarked upon that great adventure of genealogical research and who have encountered their ancestors in the archives and uncovered family secrets, are now turning to the secrets contained within the four walls of their homes and in doing so finding a direct link to earlier generations. And it is ordinary homes, not grand public buildings or the mansions of the rich, that have all the best stories. As with the television series A House Through Time, offers readers not only the tools to explore the histories of their own homes but also a vividly readable history of the British city: the forces of industry, disease, mass transportation, crime, and class. The rises and falls, the shifts in the fortunes of neighbourhoods and whole cities are here tracing the often surprising journey one single house can take from an elegant dwelling in a fashionable district to a tenement for society's rejects. Packed with remarkable human stories, David Olusoga and Melanie Backe-Hansen give us a phenomenal insight into living history, a history we can see every day on the streets where we live. And it reminds us that it is at home that we are truly ourselves. It is there that the honest face of life can be seen. At home, behind closed doors and drawn curtains, we live out our inner lives and family lives.

St Peter-On-The-Wall Johanna Dale, 2023-05-15 The Chapel of St Peter on the Wall, built on the ruins of a Roman fort, dates from the mid-seventh century.

and is one of the oldest largely intact churches in England It stands in splendid isolation on the shoreline at the mouth of the Blackwater Estuary in Essex where the land meets and interpenetrates with the sea and the sky This book brings together contributors from across the arts humanities and social sciences to uncover the pre modern contexts and modern resonances of this medieval building and its landscape setting The impetus for this collection was the recently published designs for a new nuclear power station at Bradwell on Sea which if built would have a significant impact on the chapel and its landscape setting St Peter on the Wall highlights the multiple ways in which the chapel and landscape are historically and archaeologically significant while also drawing attention to the modern importance of Bradwell as a place of Christian worship of sanctuary and of cultural production In analysing the significance of the chapel and surrounding landscape over more than a thousand years this collection additionally contributes to wider debates about the relationship between space and place and particularly the interfaces between both medieval and modern cultures and also heritage and the natural environment

Colin Ward and the Art of Everyday Anarchy Sophie Scott-Brown,2022-07-22 Colin Ward and the Art of Everyday Anarchy is the first full account of Ward s life and work Drawing on unseen archival sources as well as oral interviews it excavates the worlds and words of his anarchist thought illuminating his methods and charting the legacies of his enduring influence Colin Ward 1924 2010 was the most prominent British writer on anarchism in the 20th century As a radical journalist later author he applied his distinctive anarchist principles to all aspects of community life including the built environment education and public policy His thought was subtle universal in aspiration international in implication but at the same time deeply rooted in the local and the everyday Underlying the breadth of his interests was one simple principle freedom was always a social activity This book will be of interest to students scholars and general readers with an interest in anarchism social movements and the history of radical ideas in contemporary Britain
