Cities In World Perspective:

Cities in World Perspective Ivan Hubert Light, 1983      The Oxford Handbook of Cities in World History Peter Clark, 2013-02-14 In 2008 for the first time the majority of the planet's inhabitants lived in cities and towns. Becoming globally urban has been one of mankind's greatest collective achievements over time. Written by leading scholar this is the first detailed survey of the world's cities and towns from ancient times to the present day.      Global Perspectives on Learning Cities Séamus Ó Tuama, Eric Agbessi, Tina Neylon, 2025-09-01 This book examines the social, political, and economic rationales which lead to the development of learning cities in diverse settings in Africa, Australia, Asia, and Europe. Many of the contributors are practitioners who have played an active part in the development of their learning city. Some contributors are both practitioners and researchers on learning cities. Some are primarily researchers who are focused on understanding learning cities, gauging the benefits and potential of learning cities, and formulating new theories and approaches. The book also includes interviews with and contributions from key founding figures in the learning cities movement and in the development of UNESCO's Global Network of Learning Cities. The book explores diverse initiatives that are shaping the lives of people in cities today and into the future, fostering inclusivity, sustainability, and resilience. Each chapter offers a unique perspective on the transformative power of lifelong learning and collective commitment. Contributors share their insights from grassroots to high-level policy discussions, shedding light on the challenges and triumphs encountered along the way. This is the first major book looking at learning cities across the globe from both theoretical and practical perspectives. What sets it apart is the diversity in the material offered and the geographical and cultural spread of contexts. Cities are becoming ever more important to the future of humanity; learning cities are a vast laboratory of new and innovative ways in which people can learn together to create more fulfilling lives, better opportunities, and put into practice on a daily basis the four principles outlined in the Delors Report 1996: Learning to know, Learning to do, Learning to live together, Learning to be. This book is a valuable resource for policymakers, educators, and community leaders striving to build more inclusive and sustainable societies. Whether embarking on the journey of developing a learning city or seeking inspiration from successful initiatives, readers will find practical insights and thought-provoking perspectives within these pages.      Digital Cities III. Information Technologies for Social Capital: Cross-cultural Perspectives Peter van den Besselaar, Satoshi Koizumi, 2005-04-25 Digital cities constitutes a multidisciplinary field of research and development where researchers, designers, and developers of communityware interact and collaborate with social scientists studying the use and effects of these kinds of infrastructures and systems in their local application context. The field is rather young. After the diffusion of ICT in the world of organizations and companies, ICT entered everyday life. And this also influenced ICT research and development. The 1998 Workshop on Communityware and Social Interaction in Kyoto was an early meeting in which this emerging field was discussed. After that, two subsequent Digital Cities workshops were organized in Kyoto and a third one in Amsterdam. This book is the result of the 3rd Workshop on Digital Cities which took place September 18 19 2003 in Amsterdam in conjunction with the 1st Communities and Technologies Conference Most of the papers were presented at this workshop and were revised thoroughly afterwards Also the case studies of digital cities in Asia the US and Europe included in Part I were direct offsprings of the Digital Cities Workshops Together the papers in this volume give an interesting state of the art overview of the field In total 54 authors from the Americas from Asia and from Europe were contributed to this volume The authors come from Brazil two the USA eleven China three Japan fourteen Finland two Germany two Italy three Portugal two the Netherlands eight and the UK seven indicating the international nature of the research field Indian Cities Ecological Perspectives V. Tewari, Jay A. Weinstein, V. L. S. Prakasa Rao, Early Mesoamerican Cities Michael Love, Julia Guernsey, 2022-01-06 Urbanization is a phenomenon that brings into focus a range of topics of broad interest to scholars It is one of the central enduring interests of anthropological archaeology Because urbanization is a transformational process it changes the relationships between social and cultural variables such as demography economy politics and ideology As one of a handful of cases in the ancient world where cities developed independently Mesoamerica should play a major role in the global comparative analysis of first generation cities and urbanism in general Yet most research focuses on later manifestations of urbanism in Mesoamerica thereby perpetuating the fallacy that Mesoamerican cities developed relatively late in comparison to urban centers in the rest of the world This volume presents new data case studies and models for approaching the subject of early Mesoamerican cities It demonstrates how the study of urbanism in Mesoamerica and all ancient civilizations is entering a new and dynamic phase of scholarship Urbanism in World Perspective Sylvia Fleis Fava, 1968

Reframing the Role of Public Open Space Miriam Bodino, 2022-02-26 This book explores the growing spatial inequality in contemporary cities and the opportunity of reframing the role of public open space as a tool of inclusion in a context of an increasing economic gap between the urban poor and rich The first part outlines the geographical and theoretical frames of reference which are then tested in the analysis of a case study Cape Town This city in South Africa was selected since its spatial aspects of separation are particularly evident due to the legacy of both apartheid and modernism The examination of the policies of the City of Cape Town confirms the rising attention to public space since the 1990s This slow progress of desegregation is tested through a critical study of one of the most disadvantaged areas of the city Khayelitsha The book explores the relevance and impact of an urban design project and reframes the role of public open space not only as a tool for restructuring the apartheid city but also for reinterpreting other fragmented contemporary cities
