Civil War Front Pages John Wagman,1989-01-01 Chronological newspaper accounts trace the course of the Civil War from Fort Sumter to the assassination of President Lincoln From the Front Porch to the Front Page William D. Harpine,2005 The last presidential campaign of the nineteenth century was remarkable in a number of ways It marked the beginning of the use of the news media in a modern manner It saw the Democratic Party shift toward the more liberal position it occupies today It established much of what we now consider the Republican coalition Northeastern conservative pro business It was also notable for the rhetorical differences of its two candidates In what is often thought of as a single issue campaign William Jennings Bryan delivered his famous Cross of Gold speech but lost the election Meanwhile William McKinley addressed a range of topics in more than three hundred speeches without ever leaving his front porch The campaign of 1896 gave the public one of the most dramatic and interesting battles of political oratory in American history even though ironically its issues faded quickly into insignificance after the election In From the Front Porch to the Front Page author William D Harpine traces the campaign month by month to show the development of Bryan s rhetoric and the stability of McKinley s He contrasts the divisive oratory Bryan employed to whip up fervor perhaps explaining the 80 percent turnout in the election with the lower keyed unifying strategy McKinley adopted and with McKinley s astute privileging of rhetorical sifting over actual rhetoric Beyond adding depth and detail to the scholarly understanding of the 1896 presidential campaign itself and especially the Cross of Gold speech this book casts light on the importance of historical perspective in understanding rhetorical efforts in politics
