Civilising the City Georgina Whitehead, 2015 The six public gardens encircling Melbourne's city centre and managed by the City of Melbourne the Fitzroy Flagstaff Treasury Carlton Queen Victoria and Alexandra Gardens were established at different stages in the development of the city from the first decades after the gold rush to the early years of Australian federation Changing technologies social habits tastes and ideas about Melbourne and its place in the world have been reflected in the initial designs for each garden and in their evolution to the present day All of the gardens were shaped from despoiled remnants of the natural landscape by various departments of the Victorian Government and the City Council Whether planned or left over after other developments none were promising sites but under the direction of a few men in particular Clement Hodgkinson Carlo Catani and J T Smith all came to be admired public spaces manifesting the civility of a booming new city in the Antipodes Civilising the City is the first comprehensive account of the development of these gardens Contemporary descriptions and archival materials including the La Trobe Library's extensive picture collection are used to explore their development collectively as well as to show the evolution of each individual garden during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries

The Lure of the City Austin Williams, Alastair Donald, 2011-09-12 Cities by their very nature are a mass of contradictions They can be at once visually stunning culturally rich exploitative and unforgiving In The Lure of the City Austin Williams and Alastair Donald explore the potential of cities to meet the economic social and political challenges of the current age This book seeks to examine the dynamics of urban life showing that new opportunities can be maximised and social advances realised in existing and emerging urban centres The book explores both the planned and organic nature of urban developments and the impacts and aspirations of the people who live and work in them It argues convincingly that the metropolitan mindset is essential to the struggle for human liberation The short accessibly written essays are guaranteed to spark debate across the media and academia about the place of cities and urban life in our ever changing world

Urban Marginality, Racialisation, Interdependence Filip Alexandrescu, Ryan Powell, Ana Vilenica, 2025-03-05 This timely and interdisciplinary book deals with urban marginality as a multi faceted process of urban transformation that engenders a wide range of experiences world wide

Through the application of new empirical material and novel theoretical syntheses that exceed conceptual binaries East West North South the authors explore shifting contemporary experiences of marginality in various urban contexts in Eastern Europe EE The unique articulation between global processes such as gentrification financialization racialization and spatialization and the distinctive histories contestations and dislocations that characterize EE cities calls for increasing scholarly attention The volume explores new patterns and drivers of urban marginality and racialization and at the same time connects these to wider problematics of advanced capitalist cities as well as to post socialist and anti colonial urbanisms The fourteen chapters contribute to a more nuanced understanding of global urbanism that decentres dominant Anglophone conceptualisations Contributions focus empirically and theoretically on Czechia Estonia Hungary Kosovo Latvia Lithuania Romania Serbia and Ukraine The volume is recommended for students and urban scholars in EE and beyond but will also be of interest to activists involved in housing and urban justice as well as in broader struggles towards the anti racist city

Vietnam Bill Hayton, 2020-11-24 A much needed behind the scenes survey of an emerging Asian power The eyes of the West have recently been trained on China and India but Vietnam is rising fast among its Asian peers A breathtaking period of social change has seen foreign investment bringing capitalism flooding into its nominally communist society booming cities swallowing up smaller villages and the lure of modern living tugging at the traditional networks of family and community Yet beneath these sweeping developments lurks an authoritarian political system that complicates the nation s apparent renaissance In this engaging work experienced journalist Bill Hayton looks at the costs of change in Vietnam and questions whether this rising Asian power is really heading toward capitalism and democracy Based on vivid eyewitness accounts and pertinent case studies Hayton s book addresses a broad variety of issues in today s Vietnam including important shifts in international relations the growth of civil society economic developments and challenges and the nation s nascent democracy movement as well as its notorious internal security His analysis of Vietnam s police state and its systematic mechanisms of social control coercion and surveillance is fresh and particularly imperative when viewed alongside his portraits of urban and street life cultural legacies religion the media and the arts With a firm sense of historical and cultural context Hayton examines how these issues have emerged and where they will lead Vietnam in the next stage of its development

Civilising the City Leanne M. Day, 2005 Abstract The central argument of this thesis is that for all their differences of membership affiliation and program the various literary organisations formed in Brisbane in the 1880s and 1890s variously contributed to the definition creation and promotion of what we would now call civility in a colonial society that was widely perceived even by its own inhabitants as raw rude and un civil Remembering and Forgetting the Ancient City Javier Martínez Jiménez, Sam Ottewill-Soulsby, 2022-03-24 The Greco Roman world is identified in the modern mind by its cities This includes both specific places such as Athens and Rome but also an instantly recognizable style of urbanism wrought in marble and lived in by teeming tunic clad crowds Selective and misleading this vision may be but it speaks to the continuing importance these ancient cities have had in the centuries that followed and the extent to which they define the period in subsequent memory Although there is much that is mysterious about them the cities of the Roman Mediterranean are for the most part historically known That the names and pasts of these cities remain known to us is the product of an extraordinary process of remembering and forgetting stretching back to antiquity that took place throughout the former Roman world This volume tackles this subject of the survival and transformation of the ancient city through memory drawing upon the methodological and theoretical lenses of memory studies and resilience theory to view the way the Greco Roman city lived and vanished for the generations that separate the present from antiquity This book analyzes the different ways in which urban communities of the post Antique world have tried to understand and relate to the ancient city on their own terms examining it as a process of forgetting as well as remembering Many aspects of the ancient city were let go as time passed but those elements that survived that were actively remembered have shaped the many understandings of what it was In order to do so this volume assembles specialists in multiple fields to bring their perspectives to bear on the subject through eleven case studies that range from late Antiquity to the mid twentieth century and from the Iberian Peninsula to Iran Through the examination of archaeological remains changing urban layouts and chronicles travel guides and pamphlets they track how the ancient city was made useful or consigned to oblivion

L'espace urbain européen, ou, "Que faire du centre ville?", 1996     The City temple pulpit, sermons Joseph Parker, 1900     Cities in Civilization Peter Hall, 1998

Ranging over 2,500 years, Cities in Civilization is a tribute to the city as the birthplace of Western civilization. Drawing on the contributions of economists and geographers of cultural, technological, and social historians, Sir Peter Hall examines twenty-one cities at their greatest moments. Hall describes the achievements of these golden ages and outlines the precise combinations of forces, both universal and local, that led to each city's belle époque. Hall identifies four distinct expressions of civic innovation: artistic growth, technological progress, the marriage of culture and technology, and solutions to evolving problems. Descriptions of Periclean Athens, Renaissance Florence, Elizabethan London, and nineteenth-century Vienna bring to life those seedbeds of artistic and intellectual creativity. Explorations of Manchester during the Industrial Revolution, Henry Ford's Detroit, and Palo Alto at the dawn of the computer age highlight centers of technological advances. Tales of the creation of Los Angeles' movie industry and the birth of the blues and rock n roll in Memphis depict the marriage of culture and technology. Finally, Hall celebrates cities that have been forced to solve problems created by their very size. With Imperial Rome came the apartment block and aqueduct; nineteenth-century London introduced policing, prisons, and sewers; twentieth-century New York developed the skyscraper, and Los Angeles became the first city without a center—a city ruled instead by the car. And in a fascinating conclusion, Hall speculates on urban creativity in the twenty-first century. This penetrating study reveals not only the lives of cities but also the lives of the people who built them and created the civilizations within them. A decade in the making, Cities in Civilization is the definitive account of the culture of cities.
