Civilized Airs:

Civilized Air David Stradling, 1996      A Sea of Misadventures Amy Mitchell-Cook, 2013-11-30 A Sea of Misadventures examines more than one hundred documented shipwreck narratives from the seventeenth to the nineteenth century as a means to understanding gender status and religion in the history of early America. Though it includes all the drama and intrigue afforded by maritime disasters, the book's significance lies in its investigation of how the trauma of shipwreck affected American values and behavior. Through stories of death and devastation, Amy Mitchell Cook examines issues of hierarchy, race, and gender when the sphere of social action is shrunken to the dimensions of a lifeboat or deserted shore. Rather than debate the veracity of shipwreck tales, Mitchell Cook provides a cultural and social analysis that places maritime disasters within the broader context of North American society. She answers questions that include who survived and why, how did gender or status affect survival rates, and how did survivors relate their stories to interested but unaffected audiences. Mitchell Cook observes that in creating a sense of order out of chaotic events, the narratives reassured audiences that anarchy did not rule the waves, even when desperate survivors resorted to cannibalism. Some of the accounts she studies are legal documents required by insurance companies, while others have been a form of prescriptive literature guides that taught survivors how to act and be remembered with honor. In essence, shipwreck revealed some of the traits that defined what it meant to be Anglo American. In an elaboration of some of the themes, Mitchell Cook compares American narratives with Portuguese narratives to reveal the power of divergent cultural norms to shape so basic an event as a shipwreck.

Renaissance Collection Laurence Holder, 2003-05-27 Renaissance Collection 9620 Seven plays: RUBY and PEARL A Class act is about 2 aging burlesque dancers who don't want to take it all off; FAGEN is about the buffalo soldier who turned traitor and fought for the Philippine Army; NELSON n SIMONE is about the torrid love affair between France's Simone de Beauvoir and the America's Nelson Algren; F The Fringe Candidate is about the vivacious and extremely thoughtful Lenora Fulani, political activist; featured are Jesse Jefferson and Madonna; DREAM ROOMS is a fable about couples in love; and the final 2 plays are about the great novelist Zora Neale Hurston: ZORA and LANGSTON and ZORA WHU      The Dublin Penny Journal, 1832

Modernity in Spanish America, 1850-1910 Lee Skinner, 2018-10-01 This ambitious volume shows how nineteenth-century Spanish American writers used the discourses of modernity to envision the place of women at all levels of social and even political life in the modern utopian nation. Looking at texts ranging from novels and essays to newspaper articles and advertisements, and with special attention to public and private space, domesticity, education, technology, and work, Skinner identifies gender as a central concern at every level of society      Air power and colonial control David Enrico

Omissi, 2017-03-01 Air policing was used in many colonial possessions, but its most effective incidence occurred in the crescent of territory from north eastern Africa through South West Arabia to North West Frontier of India This book talks about air policing and its role in offering a cheaper means of pacification in the inter war years It illuminates the potentialities and limitations of the new aerial technology and makes important contributions to the history of colonial resistance and its suppression Air policing was employed in the campaign against Mohammed bin Abdulla Hassan and his Dervish following in Somaliland in early 1920 The book discusses the relationships between air control and the survival of Royal Air Force in Iraq and between air power and indirect imperialism in the Hashemite kingdoms It discusses Hugh Trenchard s plans to substitute air for naval or coastal forces and assesses the extent to which barriers of climate and geography continued to limit the exercise of air power Indigenous responses include being terrified at the mere sight of aircraft to the successful adaptation to air power which was hardly foreseen by either the opponents or the supporters of air policing The book examines the ethical debates which were a continuous undercurrent to the stream of argument about repressive air power methods from a political and operational perspective It compares air policing as practised by other European powers by highlighting the Rif war in Morocco the Druze revolt in Syria and Italy s war of reconquest in Libya
