Designing with the Mind in Mind Jeff Johnson,2020-09-22 User interface UI design rules and guidelines developed by early HCI gurus and recognized throughout the field were based on cognitive psychology study of mental processes such as problem solving memory and language and early practitioners were well informed of its tenets But today practitioners with backgrounds in cognitive psychology are a minority as user interface designers and developers enter the field from a wide array of disciplines HCI practitioners today have enough experience in UI design that they have been exposed to UI design rules but it is essential that they understand the psychological basis behind the rules in order to effectively apply them In Designing with the Mind in Mind best selling author Jeff Johnson provides designers with just enough background in perceptual and cognitive psychology that UI design guidelines make intuitive sense rather than being just a list of rules to follow

User Interface Design Larry E. Wood,2018-05-04 Although numerous sources document aspects of user centered design there are few references that consider how a designer transforms the information gathered about users and their work into an effective user interface design This book explains just how designers bridge that gap A group of leading experts in GUI design describe their methods in the context of specific design projects and while the projects processes and methods vary considerably the common theme is building a bridge between user requirements and user interface design Designing User Interfaces for Hypermedia Wolfgang Schuler,Jörg Hannemann,Norbert Streitz,2013-11-11 One can observe that a wide range of human activities involves various forms of design Especially if the goal implies the creation of an artifact design is at the very center of these activities It is the general understanding in the public to place design especially in the context of for example fashion furniture household items cars and architecture or in a more general way at the intersection of art and engineering Of course in the field of information technology developers of software and hardware are called system designers Design can be identified and considered in the context of many activities related to publishing creating a product ad in a magazine designing the layout of a newspaper authoring a book Summarizing these examples as creating documents these are activities where two challenges with respect to design have to be met Designing the content its structure and its relationship to the existing knowledge of potential readers is one while the other refers to the rhetorical aspects including designing the presentation of the material in order to communicate the content Publishing is communicating knowledge
