Developments In Injection Molding:

Developments in Injection Moulding—3 A. Whelan, J. L. Craft (M. Sc.), J. P. Goff, 1985-11-19 In the field of polymer technology injection moulding is the most important moulding process. Because of the size of that industry and the rate of development which it attracts it is impossible to present in a single reasonably sized volume all of the developments that have taken place in recent years. The purpose of this book is therefore to present selected topics which contribute to or exemplify developments in this important area. Each year considerable development takes place in the area of machine and process control and these developments receive considerable publicity in the trade press. Another area which advances at the same pace but which seems to receive far less publicity although it is equally important is the area of mould design and manufacture. It is important because profitability is dependent upon the design, manufacture and operation of the mould. It is for this reason that several chapters relating to mould design have been included in this, the third volume in this series. The topics covered include advances in mould manufacture, the use of runnerless systems to aid productivity and others showing how the applications of computers can greatly assist the moulder to obtain a more productive unit. Modern

Developments in Powder Metallurgy, 1985 Includes bibliographical references. Advances in Automation for Plastics Injection Moulding J. Mallon, 2001 There are few complete technical sources of information available for plastic injection moulders to use relating to automation. This review has been compiled by researching and analysing technical references. It is intended to describe the basics of the technology and to explain how to put the technology to use. The review is supplemented by an indexed section containing several hundred abstracts from the Polymer Library. Advances in Blow Moulding

Process Optimization Andres Garcia-Rejon, 1995 This report provides a review of the development and current understanding of blow moulding technology. The history and technology of blow moulding are reviewed and details are given on the research carried out in order to better understand the fundamental phenomena affecting the different stages of the process and their interdependence in controlling final part characteristics. An additional indexed section containing several hundred abstracts from the Rapra Polymer Library database provides useful references for further reading. Recent
