Deconstruction and the Work of Art Martta Heikkilä, 2021-07-29 The contemporary idea of the work of art is paradoxically both widely used and often unexamined Therefore we must re evaluate the concept before we can understand what the deconstruction of aesthetics means for thinkers like Jacques Derrida Jean Luc Nancy and Philippe Lacoue Labarthe By examining their analyses of works of visual art and contextualizing their thinking on the matter Martta Heikkil asserts that the implications of the work of art art and the aesthetic apply not only to philosophical questions but also to a broader area Instead of the totality represented by the historical concept of Art poststructuralist thinkers introduce the idea of the radical multiplicity of art and its works From this notion arises the fundamental issue in Derrida and the poststructuralist tradition how can we speak philosophically of art which always exists as singular instances as works In Deconstruction and the Work of Art Visual Arts and Their Critique in Contemporary French Thought Heikkil shows that the deconstructionist notions of art are still influential in the discourses of contemporary art in which artworks proliferate and the concept of work is open ended and expanding This book offers an introduction to the deconstructionist theory of art and brings new perspectives to the complex undecidable relation between philosophy and art

Deconstructing Art Kam Wen Siu,2025-07-05 Modern aesthetics is in as much a quagmire as modern art is Since the nineteenth century there has been no serious attempt at defining beauty while the great many of theorists focus their attention on a concocted concept that is foreign and unnatural to say the least the aesthetic Art theory on the other hand failed utterly in its fundamental task when it handed the artist and the so called artworld a carte blanche in the form of the institutional theory of art to decide by themselves what art is and is not This study attempts to fill both niches thus left gaping The study is the practical application of a method that we have first gleaned in On Names Ideas and Super Ideas The method requires that we treat the idea or concept of art as a mental mish mash that has resulted from an atypical messy process of abstraction and recognize the fact that the meaning of the word art can not be encompassed by a single definition The only way to define art is to break down this mental mishmash into component ideas that would have resulted from the process of abstraction had it been typical and provide a definition for each of such component ideas The work is divided into five parts Parts I and II provide an objective definition of art Part III provides an objective definition of beauty Part IV provides guidelines for judging or appreciating any work of art And Part V provides a rather personal interpretation of what went on in the arts during the twentieth century

Inter-Medial Observations on the 'Reflected' Or 'Deconstructed' Illusion Bjoern Schubert,2011-07 Essay from the year 2009 in the subject American Studies Comparative Literature grade 1 0 Humboldt University of Berlin Amerikanistik und Anglistik course Postmodern Cinema language English abstract In this self study journal I aim to collect some comparative and inter medial ideas on how illusion here defined as different perspectives on reality in the arts is reflected within the media of film painting and literature The perception of reality especially in the medium of film remains up to the present moment a controversial and still largely unexplored topic in the fields of philosophy neuroscience and film theory therefore the intent of this self study journal is to focus on a small selection of examples of modern and postmodern film literature and the visual arts photography and painting As well I will explore a few selected quotations from manifestos in the tradition of early 20th century avant garde and also will make brief reference to earlier periods When we accept the reality that is shown to us in the movies we are giving ourselves over to the illusion of cinema that is being created by talented cast and crew in the production and carefully honed in post production by skillful editing The power of the illusion in cinema is to take us for the time being into another world and ideally we forget for the moment that we are still sitting in a dark room with a large screen In the medium of literature our imagination takes control of the world presented by the author's words and is translated into a uniquely imagined reality that is created by the reader's own imagination and recollection of memories Like in the cinema if a book grabs us we tend to forget our presence in the real world for the time reading the book
