Cross, 2013-06-17 Mastering the Semi Structured Interview and Beyond offers an in depth and captivating step by step guide to the use of semi structured interviews in qualitative research By tracing the life of an actual research project an exploration of a school district s effort over 40 years to address racial equality as a consistent example threaded across the volume Anne Galletta shows in concrete terms how readers can approach the planning and execution of their own new research endeavor and illuminates unexpected real life challenges they may confront and how to address them The volume offers a close look at the inductive nature of qualitative research the use of researcher reflexivity and the systematic and iterative steps involved in data collection analysis and interpretation It offers guidance on how to develop an interview protocol including the arrangement of questions and ways to evoke analytically rich data Particularly useful for those who may be familiar with qualitative research but have not yet conducted a qualitative study Mastering the Semi Structured Interview and Beyond will serve both undergraduate and graduate students as well as more advanced scholars seeking to incorporate this key methodological approach into their repertoire The Shaker, 1871

Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities Andrew J. Fuligni, 2007-05-31 Since the end of legal segregation in schools most research on educational inequality has focused on economic and other structural obstacles to the academic achievement of disadvantaged groups But in Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities a distinguished group of psychologists and social scientists argue that stereotypes about the academic potential of some minority groups remain a significant barrier to their achievement This groundbreaking volume examines how low institutional and cultural expectations of minorities hinder their academic success how these stereotypes are perpetuated and the ways that minority students attempt to empower themselves by redefining their identities The contributors to Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities explore issues of ethnic identity and educational inequality from a broad range of disciplinary perspectives drawing on historical analyses social psychological experiments interviews and observation Meagan Patterson and Rebecca Bigler show that when teachers label or segregate students according to social categories even in subtle ways students are more likely to rank and stereotype one another so educators must pay attention to the implicit or unintentional ways that they emphasize group differences Many of the contributors contest John Ogbu s theory that African Americans have developed an oppositional culture that devalues academic effort as a form of acting white Daphna Oyserman and Daniel Brickman in their study of black and Latino youth find evidence that strong identification with their ethnic group is actually associated with higher academic motivation among minority youth Yet as Julie Garcia and Jennifer Crocker find in a study of African American female college students the desire to disprove negative stereotypes about race and gender can lead to anxiety low self esteem and excessive self defeating levels of effort which impede learning and academic success The authors call for educational institutions to diffuse these threats to minority students identities by emphasizing that intelligence is a malleable rather than a fixed trait Contesting Stereotypes and Creating Identities reveals the many hidden ways that educational opportunities are denied to some social groups At the same time this probing and wide ranging anthology provides a fresh perspective on the creative ways that these groups challenge stereotypes and attempt to participate fully in the educational system
