

SLEEP CYCLE

STAGE 4 (DREAM & BRAIN ACTIVITY)

Rapid Eye Movement Phase. Most dreaming occurs during this phase. Your body will not be able to regulate its temperature. You may begin to feel hot or cold.

STAGE 1 (LIGHT PHASE OF SLEEP)

Non Rapid Eye Movement Phase. You are just starting to fall asleep. You are floating and your mind begins to drift. You can wake easily during this stage.

Each cycle lasts around 1.5 hours and we need to experience all four stages in order to wake up rested

A good night's sleep consists of five or six cycles, whereas disturbed sleep consists of far fewer.

STAGE 3 (DEEPER PHASE OF SLEEP)

This phase is characterized by Delta brain waves and a large increase in Human Growth Hormone (HGH). Your breathing will become deeper. Your body will repair and regrow tissue. Also, your immune system will strengthen. You may feel disoriented if woken during this stage.

STAGE 2 (LIGHT PHASE OF SLEEP)

Your heart rate will slow down. Your body temperature will drop. Your eye movement stops. Your brain waves slow down. Almost 50% of your time asleep is in Stage 2.

Antihypertensive Therapy F. Gross,2012-12-06 Hypertension has certainly been one of the topics most frequently discussed at symposia meetings and congresses during recent years There may be several reasons for this three of them are obvious firstly the fact that a large proportion of the world s population is suffering from various forms of hypertensive disease secondly increasing knowledge of the pathogenesis of hypertension and of the disturbances underlying it and thirdly the marked progress which has been made in antihypertensive therapy over the past fifteen years When plans for the present symposium were being drawn up it was felt that it should not simply bring forth just another meeting on hypertension but should place particular emphasis on those aspects which had not been adequately discussed at previous symposia of this kind Curiously enough the topic which appeared to have received least attention in the past was therapy although from the practical point of view this is by far the most important The choice of therapy as the main theme of the whole symposium also seemed to be warranted in view of the relatively long period that had elapsed since effective antihypertensive treatment became available the time had in fact come now to pass judgement on the benefits as well as the shortcomings of drug treatment as available today
