A Global Affair:

A Global Middle East Liat Kozma, Cyrus Schayegh, Avner Wishnitzer, 2014-12-03 The start of the twentieth century ushered in a period of unprecedented change in the Middle East. These transformations brought about by the emergence of the modern state system and an increasing interaction with a more globalized economy irrevocably altered the political and social structures of the Middle East even as the region itself left its mark on the processes of globalization themselves. As a result of these changes there was an intensification in the movement of people, commodities and ideas across the globe: commercial activity, urban space, intellectual life, leisure, culture, immigration patterns and education, nothing was left untouched. It shows how even as the Middle East was responding to increased economic interactions with the rest of the world by restructuring not only local economies but also cultural, political and social institutions, the region's engagement with these trends altered the nature of globalization itself. This period has been seen as one in which the modern state system and its oftentimes artificial boundaries emerged in the Middle East. But this book highlights how despite this it was also one of tremendous interconnection. Approaching the first period of modern globalization by investigating the movement of people, objects and ideas into and around and out of the Middle East, the authors demonstrate how the Middle East in this period was not simply subject or reactive to the West but rather an active participant in the transnational flows that transformed both the region and the world. A Global Middle East offers an examination of a variety of intellectual and more material exchanges such as nascent feminist movements and Islamist ideologies as well as the movement of sex workers across the Mediterranean and Jewish migration into Palestine. A Global Middle East emphasises this by examining the multi-directional nature of movement across borders as well as this movement's intensity, volume and speed. By focusing on the theme of mobility as the defining feature of modern globalization in the Middle East, it provides an essential examination of the formative years of the region.

International Trade and Global Macropolicy Farrokh Langdana, Peter T. Murphy, 2013-07-16 In the curricula of highly ranked MBA programs two areas of discussion are conspicuously absent: International Trade and Global Macroeconomic Policy. In this post-financial crisis environment as the US and other advanced economies continue to experience sluggish growth, persistently high unemployment and political agitation for increasingly protectionist policies, discussions pertaining to trade, currencies and international capital flows are often fraught with emotion, tension and hysteria. This book cuts through the emotions and superficial solutions and provides the reader with a thorough understanding of the hard-hitting theoretical models that drive the global flow of goods, services and capital in the real world. A key feature of this volume is the presentation of the theoretical models and the discussion of their implications in the context of real-world applications. This text is uniquely designed for current and future business leaders who are or will be engaged in the global economy. Armed with an understanding of the theoretical underpinnings driving goods, capital and ideas across national boundaries, readers will learn to anticipate the effects of trade and macroeconomic policy changes and will have the tools to make sound informed decisions for themselves and their global organizations

A Global History of Anti-Apartheid Anna Konieczna, Rob Skinner, 2019-04-15 This book explores the global history of anti apartheid and international solidarity with southern African freedom struggles from the 1960s It examines the institutions campaigns and ideological frameworks that defined the globalization of anti apartheid the ways in which the concept of solidarity was mediated by individuals organizations and states and considers the multiplicity of actors and interactions involved in generating and sustaining anti apartheid around the world It includes detailed accounts of key case studies from Europe Asia and Latin America which illustrate the complex relationships between local and global agendas as well as the diverse political cultures embodied in anti apartheid Taken together these examples reveal the tensions and synergies transnational webs and local contingencies that helped to create the sense of being global that united worldwide anti apartheid campaigns

A Global Radical Waterfront Holger Weiss, 2021-07-05 This volume investigates the ambition of the Red International of Labour Unions to radicalize the global waterfront during the interwar period The main vehicle was the International Propaganda Committee of Transport Workers replaced in 1930 by the International of Seamen and Harbour Workers as well as their agitation and propaganda centres the International Harbour Bureaus and the International Seamen s Clubs The book scrutinizes their solidarity campaigns in support of local and national strikes as well as on their agitation against discrimination segregation and racism within the unions their demands to organize non white maritime transport workers and their calls for engagement in anti fascist anti war and anti imperialist actions
