Casanova Fable:

The Casanova Fable William Alexander Gerhardie, Hugh Kingsmill, 1934 The Casanova Fable William Alexander Gerhardie, 1934 Casanova Fable William Alexander Gerhardie, Hugh Kingsmill, 1981 The Casanova Fable William Alexander Gerhardie, Philip Youngman CARTER, Giacomo Girolamo CASANOVA DI SEINGALT, Hugh KINGSMILL, 1934

The Casanova Fable William Alexander Gerhardie, 1934 Casanova, 1930 Casanova, Curator of Memories Preston James Metcalf, 2018-09-07 ILLUSTRATED Casanova one of the world's greatest lovers and scoundrels is dying. It is now during his final waning days in a series of conversations with his idolizing grandnephew that he tells his greatest tales. CASANOVA CURATOR OF MEMORIES is a journey through time, memory, and art as the once legendary rogue teaches his young charge about romance, loss, bravery, sacrifice, and the profound wonders of love. Along the way, Casanova bids farewell to his beloved Venice, teaches his niece Lorenzo's mother to once again embrace life, comes to terms with a disapproving God, and like Casanova before and after him, reveals the greatest lessons he has learned from his love of art and the art of love. Written by noted art historian and museum Curator Preston Metcalf, CASANOVA CURATOR OF MEMORIES is a tour de force journey through some of the world's most celebrated masterpieces and how they teach us about love and what it truly means to be human.

Criticism of Society in the English Novel Between the Wars Hena Maes-Jelinek, 2013-05-22 The main concern of this study is the artist's vision of society; its major theme is the relation between the individual and society resulting from the impact of social and political upheavals on individual life. By criticism of society, I mean the novelist's awareness of the social reality and of the individual's response to it. The writers I deal with all proved alive to the changes that were taking place in English society between the two World Wars. Though the social attitudes of the inter-war years, as well as the writers' response to them, were shaped by lasting and complex influences such as trends in philosophy and science, the two Wars stand out as determining factors in the development of the novel. The consequences of the First were explored by most writers in the Twenties, whereas in the following decade the novelists felt compelled to voice the anxiety aroused by the threat of another conflict and to warn against its possible effects. After the First World War, many writers felt keenly the social disruption, the old standards which were thought to have made this suicidal War possible were distrusted, the code of behaviour and the moral values of the older generation were openly criticized for having led to bankruptcy. Disparagement of authority increased the individual's sense of isolation, his insecurity, his disgust or fear. Even the search for pleasure, so widely satirized in the Twenties, was the expression of a cynicism born of despair. The ensuing disengagement of the individual from his environment became a major theme in the novel; his isolation was at once a cause for resentment and the source of his fierce individualism.

Casanova's Homecoming Arthur Schnitzler, 1922 What happens to the great lover when he is old and no longer great? Casanova S. Guy Endore, 1929 The New Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature: Volume 4, 1900-1950 George Watson, I. R. Willison, 1972-12-07 More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 4 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957 to add materials of the following decade to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available and to re shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries
