Fenimore Cooper's settler classic The Last of the Mohicans into visual pieces. Empty Spaces reinscribes those words on the page itself and in doing so subjects them to bold rewritings. Reimagining the nineteenth century text from the contemporary perspective of an urban Nisga'a person whose relationship to land and traditional knowledge and spiritual traditions was severed by colonial violence, Abel attempts to answer his research question of what it means to be Indigenous without access to familial territory. Engaging the land through fiction and metaphor, Abel creates an eerie looping and atmospheric rendering of place that evolves despite the violent and reckless histories of North America. The result is a bold and profound new vision of history that decenters human perception and forgoes Westernized ways of seeing. Rather than turning to characters and dialogue to explore truth, Abel invites us to instead understand that the land knows everything that can and will happen even as the world lurches toward uncertainty.

A Practical treatise on diseases of the skin Oliver Samuel Ormsby, 1915 Life and Her Children Arabella Burton Buckley, 1890 The Christian Work and the Evangelist, 1906
