Death In The Making:

Death in the Making Robert Capa, 1938 Death in the Making 1938 is a photographic book by Gerda Taro and Robert Capa that documents the Spanish Civil War. It was published by Covici Friede Publishers while the conflict was still underway. It is dedicated to Taro who died in the battlefield the year prior. The book also includes photographs by David Seymour and Andr Kert sz. Though the photographs are credited to Robert Capa, he has written that the work was a collective project by both photographers and that the photographs are interspersed and unattributed. Taro is also thought to have been excluded from authorship for fear that publishers would take a female photographer less seriously. This book helped to cement Capa's and Taro's reputations as leading war photographers and pioneers in photojournalism. Taken from Wikipedia Governing Death, Making Persons Huwy-min Lucia Liu, 2023-01-15 Governing Death Making Persons tells the story of how economic reforms and changes in the management of death in China have affected the governance of persons. The Chinese Communist Party has sought to channel the funeral industry and death rituals into vehicles for reshaping people into modern citizens and subjects. Since the Reform and Opening period and the marketization of state funeral parlors, the Party has promoted personalized funerals in the hope of promoting a market-oriented and individualistic ethos. However, things have not gone as planned. Huwy min Lucia Liu writes about the funerals she witnessed and the life stories of two kinds of funeral workers: state workers who are quasi-government officials and semilegal private funeral brokers. She shows that end-of-life commemoration in urban China today is characterized by the resilience of social conventions and not a shift toward market economy individualization. Rather than seeing a rise of individualism and the decline of a socialist self, Liu sees the durability of socialist religious communal and relational ideas of self woven together through creative ritual framings in spite of their contradictions.

The Age of Spectacular Death Michael Hviid Jacobsen, 2020-09-08 This book explores death in contemporary society or more precisely in the spectacular age by moving beyond classic studies of death that emphasised the importance of the death taboo and death denial to examine how we now do death. Unfolding the notion of spectacular death as characteristic of our modern approach to death and dying, it considers the new mediation or mediatization of death and dying, the commercialisation of death as a marketable commodity used to sell products, advance artistic expression or provoke curiosity, the re-ritualisation of death and the growth of new ways of finding meaning through commemorating the dead, the revolution of palliative care and the specialisation surrounding death, particularly in relation to scholarship. Presenting a range of case studies that shed light on this new understanding of death in contemporary culture, The Age of Spectacular Death will appeal to scholars of sociology, cultural and media studies, psychology and anthropology with interests in death and dying.

Death, Memory and Material Culture Elizabeth Hallam, Jenny Hockey, 2020-05-26 How do the living maintain ongoing relationships with the dead in Western societies? How have the residual belongings of the dead been used to evoke memories? Why has the body and its material environment remained so important in memory-making? Objects, images, practices and places remind us of the deaths of others and of our own mortality At the time of death embodied persons disappear from view their relationships with others come under threat and their influence may cease Emotionally socially politically much is at stake at the time of death In this context memories and memory making can be highly charged and often provide the dead with a social presence amongst the living Memories of the dead are a bulwark against the terror of forgetting as well as an inescapable outcome of a life s ending Objects in attics gardens museums streets and cemeteries can tell us much about the processes of remembering This unusual and absorbing book develops perspectives in anthropology and cultural history to reveal the importance of material objects in experiences of grief mourning and memorializing Far from being invisible the authors show how past generations dead friends and lovers remain manifest through well worn garments letters photographs flowers residual drops of perfume funerary sculpture Tracing the rituals gestures and materials that have been used to shape and preserve memories of personal loss Hallam and Hockey show how material culture provides the deceased with a powerful presence within the here and now Being Dead Otherwise Anne Allison,2023-02-13 With an aging population declining marriage and childbirth rates and a rise in single households more Japanese are living and dying alone Many dead are no longer buried in traditional ancestral graves where descendants would tend their spirits and individuals are increasingly taking on mortuary preparation for themselves In Being Dead Otherwise Anne Allison examines the emergence of new death practices in Japan as the old customs of mortuary care are coming undone She outlines the proliferation of new industries services initiatives and businesses that offer alternative means ranging from automated graves collective grave sites and crematoria to one stop mortuary complexes and robotic priests for tending to the dead These new burial and ritual practices provide alternatives to long standing traditions of burial and commemoration of the dead In charting this shifting ecology of death Allison outlines the potential of these solutions to radically reorient sociality in Japan in ways that will impact how we think about the end of life identity tradition and culture in Japan and beyond
