The Social Contexts of Criminal Sentencing Martha A. Myers, Susette M.

Talarico, 2012-12-06 Historically the announcement and invocation of criminal penalties were public spectacles Today fear of crime and disaffection with the criminal justice system guarantee that this public fascination with punishment continues In the past decade virtually every legislature in the country has undertaken sentencing reform in the hope that public concern with crime would be allayed and disparities in criminal sentences would be reduced if not eliminated Scholars have intensified their longstanding preoccupation with discrimination and the sources of disparate treatment during sentencing issues that continue to fuel contemporary reform efforts As documented in Chapter 1 empirical research on sentencing has concentrated much of its attention on the offender Only recently have attempts been made to imbed sentencing in its broader organizational and social contexts Our study extends these attempts by quantitatively analyzing the relationship between the offender and the social contexts in which he or she is sentenced We use data on felony sentencing in Georgia between 1976 and 1985 to ask three questions The first addresses an issue of perennial concern during sentencing how important are offender attributes both those of explicit legal relevance and traits whose legal relevance is questionable or nonexistent The second question directs attention to the social contexts of sentencing and asks whether they directly affect sentencing outcomes

Sentencing Fragments Michael Tonry, 2015-12-02 Almost everyone agrees Right on Crime the ACLU Koch Industries George Soros's Open Society Foundation the editorial boards of the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal that America's current systems for sentencing criminal offenders are a shambles with crazy quilts of incompatible and conflicting laws policies and practices in every state and the federal system Most everyone agrees that punishments are too severe and too many people are in prison However the kinds of major changes required to undo mass incarceration and rebuild American sentencing are simply not happening Despite well intentioned rhetoric and media coverage there has been very little meaningful change In Sentencing Fragments Michael Tonry explains what needs to be done to rebuild just systems of sentencing and punishment and how to do it This book tells the story of sentencing policy changes since 1975 examines research findings concerning their effects and explains what does and does not work Beyond calling attention to the devastating effects on the lives of the poor and disadvantaged and the latest empirical evidence Tonry identifies the common moral theories behind criminal sentencing as well as their larger assumptions about human nature and discusses the ways in which different theories have bred very different sentencing policies Sentencing Fragments concludes with a set of proposals for creating better policies and practices for the future calling for American legislators and politicians to remake sentencing into the humane and just process that it always should have been In lucid and engaging prose Michael Tonry reveals the historical foundation for the current state of the American criminal justice system while simultaneously offering a game plan for long overdue reform

21st Century Criminology: A Reference Handbook J. Mitchell Miller, 2009-08-06 Criminology has experienced tremendous growth over the last few decades evident in part by the widespread popularity and increased enrollment in criminology and criminal justice departments at the undergraduate and graduate levels across the U S and internationally Evolutionary paradigmatic shift has accompanied this surge in definitional disciplinary and pragmatic terms Though long identified as a leading sociological specialty area criminology has emerged as a stand alone discipline in its own right one that continues to grow and is clearly here to stay Criminology today remains inherently theoretical but is also far more applied in focus and thus more connected to the academic and practitioner concerns of criminal justice and related professional service fields Contemporary criminology is also increasingly interdisciplinary and thus features a broad variety of ideological orientations to and perspectives on the causes effects and responses to crime 21st Century Criminology A Reference Handbook provides straightforward and definitive overviews of 100 key topics comprising traditional criminology and its modern outgrowths The individual chapters have been designed to serve as a first look reference source for most criminological inquires Both connected to the sociological origins of criminology i.e. theory and research methods and the

The U.S. Sentencing Guidelines Dean J. Champion, 1989-11-03 A distinguished group of noted criminal justice specialists here examines the impact of the new U S sentencing guidelines imposed in 1987 on law enforcement the prosecution and courts and corrections Although these guidelines were created with the expressed purpose of increasing judicial fairness and reducing prison overcrowding the contributors argue that their long range effects will be to aggravate present overcrowding problems to intolerably high levels To make their case contributors address individually such issues as plea bargaining the new role of parole and corrections officers the likely effects of the scheduled abolition of the parole board in 1992 and more Both students of criminal justice and practicing parole and corrections officers will find these chapters enlightening reading Following an introductory overview that puts the U S sentencing guidelines in perspective two chapters discuss their impact on law enforcement officer discretion and crime control and deterrence Turning to an exploration of the courts the contributors address prosecutorial discretion in plea bargaining judicial discretion and sentencing disparities case processing and sentencing alternatives and how predictions of dangerousness affect the sentencing process In their analysis of the relationship between the sentencing guidelines and corrections trends the contributors examine issues such as community based corrections and privatization inmate litigation and constitutional issues and recidivism Finally editor Dean Champion offers a perceptive synthesis of the volume by summarizing the serious problems posed by imposition of the U S sentencing guidelines Four appendices provide additional related information for the student and researcher
