

DEVELOPMENTAL PSYCHOPATHOLOGY

INTRODUCTION

Movies and media play very important role in the understanding and analyzing the mental health of a child or adolescents. The way they portray the character explains a lot about the mental state and classification of mental health disorders in children and adolescents.

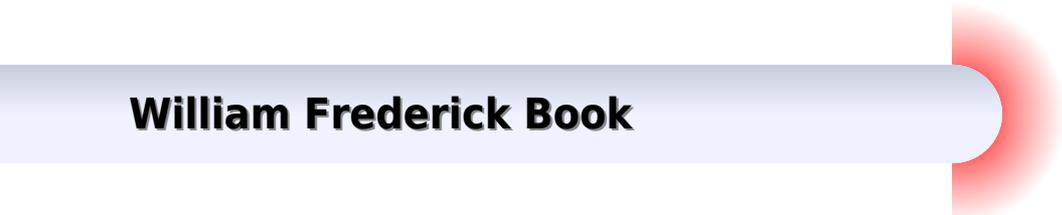

To understand this we can take the character of "Ishaan Awasthi" from the movie, "Taare Zameen Par".

The way his character was portrayed in movie perfectly fits the condition called "Dyslexia" which according to Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Disorders (DSM-5) comes under Learning Disabilities and it is a sub classification of Intellectual Disabilities.

His character perfectly portrays how a child with this disability is not able to understand the formation and concepts of alphabets and numbers. He is an introverted and always remains fearful of studies kind of boy because his brain is not able to identify and differentiate between alphabets or numbers that look alike or able to recognize the formation of that alphabet or number. Especially when there was a scene where his teacher checked his copy and he was not able to differentiate between p and q because they look alike, he was not able to differentiate between d and t because their pronunciation almost felt like same.
