Building Community in Buildings Ken Baker, Jana M. Kemp, 2006-11-30 Building Community in Buildings takes us on a fascinating journey through workplaces large and small old and new traditional and contemporary to explore the dynamic relationships between people and the structures in which they work Noting that a child born today will spend 90 percent of his or her life inside Jana Kemp and Ken Baker integrate insights from management and building design to reveal new understandings about workplace productivity and performance Showcasing dozens of examples from office buildings to libraries to hospitals the authors highlight innovative practices that utilize space to promote creativity and collaboration improve morale and motivation and ensure employee health and safety Featuring over a dozen photographs practical recommendations and the tools to conduct a workplace design survey in your own organization Building Community in Buildings ultimately demonstrates that by investing in spaces that support people needs companies will strengthen bottom line results Building Community in Buildings takes us on a fascinating journey through workplaces large and small old and new traditional and contemporary to explore the dynamic relationships between people and the structures in which they work Consider that in the 1950s average North Americans spent approximately 50 percent of their time in buildings compared to a child born today who will spend 90 percent of his or her life inside Clearly and increasingly our social and cultural relationships are deeply influenced by the physical spaces in which they are created Jana Kemp and Ken Baker integrate insights from management and building design to reveal new understandings about workplace productivity and performance Showcasing dozens of examples from the redesign of the Hood River Library in Oregon with input from front line employees to the creation of open naturally lit spaces in Lockheed Building 157 increasing employee productivity by 15% the authors highlight innovative practices that utilize space to promote creativity and collaboration improve morale and motivation and ensure employee health and safety They also explore the pros and cons of virtual workplaces in which people are connected electronically but not physically and trace the impact and influences of such trends as the green building movement Featuring over a dozen photographs practical recommendations and the tools to conduct a workplace design survey in your own organization Building Community in Buildings ultimately demonstrates that by investing in spaces that support people needs companies will strengthen bottom line results

Community By Design: New Urbanism for Suburbs and Small Communities Kenneth B. Hall, Jr., Gerald A. Porterfield, 2001-04-02 More than 50% of Americans live in suburban and exurban communities and populations are increasing as more people seek green spaces better access to education retirement living and homeownership Yet these communities with smaller budgets and no long term growth planning are unprepared for the problems traffic congestion poor air quality and strip malls to name a few that are now plaguing them Community by Design authored by two specialists in suburban and exurban design and development shows how to apply good planning practices to these smaller communities

City Making Gerald E. Frug, 2001-02-20 American

metropolitan areas today are divided into neighborhoods of privilege and poverty often along lines of ethnicity and race City residents traveling through these neighborhoods move from feeling at home to feeling like tourists to feeling so out of place they fear for their security As Gerald Frug shows this divided and inhospitable urban landscape is not simply the result of individual choices about where to live or start a business It is the product of government policies and in particular the policies embedded in legal rules A Harvard law professor and leading expert on urban affairs Frug presents the first ever analysis of how legal rules shape modern cities and outlines a set of alternatives to bring down the walls that now keep city dwellers apart Frug begins by describing how American law treats cities as subdivisions of states and shows how this arrangement has encouraged the separation of metropolitan residents into different sometimes hostile groups He explains in clear accessible language the divisive impact of rules about zoning redevelopment land use and the organization of such city services as education and policing He pays special attention to the underlying role of anxiety about strangers the widespread desire for good schools and the pervasive fear of crime Ultimately Frug calls for replacing the current legal definition of cities with an alternative based on what he calls community building an alternative that gives cities within the same metropolitan region incentives to forge closer links with each other An incisive study of the legal roots of today s urban problems City Making is also an optimistic and compelling blueprint for enabling American cities once again to embrace their historic role of helping people reach an accommodation with those who live in the same geographic area no matter how dissimilar they are
