Regulation Strategies and Economic Policies Bernard Corry,Maurice Peston,1999

This is the third and final volume written in honour of Bernard Corry and Maurice Peston by an internationally renowned group of experts and focuses on the application of economics to policy advice. The contributors to this volume consider practical policy issues including labour market policy and the problem of unemployment methodology and econometric analysis, taxation policy, industrial regulation, practical applications of transaction cost theory in the European Union, policy issues such as foreign direct investment and pension reform affecting transition economies and training policies in developing countries.

The Washington State Development Guide for Health, 1973 The Evolution of the Single European Market David G. Mayes, 1997. The contributors to this work examine how the Single Market has developed in practice and discuss the impact it has had on industry regions and groups in society. The Economics of Regulation: Principles and Institutions: Economic principles Alfred Edward Kahn, 1970 Trade Regulation Series ..., 1992

Advanced Securities Law Workshop, 1999 Trade Blocs? Vincent Cable, David Henderson, 1994. Regionalism has gained a new prominence with the creation of the NAFTA and APEC and the enlargement and deepening of the EC. Divergent views fuel the debate over whether regional integration is beneficial and whether it advances or slows global integration through GATT. Trade Blocs sets forth the latest thinking about regionalism. Alasdair Smith summarizes strategic trade theory applicable to regional integration focusing on imperfect competition and growth. Jim Rollo addresses enlargement in relation to the newly liberalizing economies of Eastern Europe. Masami Yoshida, Ichiro Akimune, Masayuki Mohara and Kimitoshi Sato trace Asian regionalism which works despite the absence of formal intergovernmental structures. Regional integration is now concerned with much more than trade. Stephen Thomsen looks at evolving corporate structures and investment. Benn Steil illustrates the dilemmas of harmonization in the financial services sector. David Currie and John Whitley discuss the benefits of closer European economic union in particular greater policy convergence. Finally David Henderson puts the whole trade blocs debate into a wider policy perspective. Cases and Other Materials on Trade Regulation Milton Handler, 1937
