Informatics Abstracts ,1987 Regularization of the Chapman-Enskog Expansion and Its Description of Shock Structure Kun Xu,2001 Abstract In the continuum transition ow regime we propose to truncate the Chapman Enskog expansion of the Boltzmann equation to the Navier Stokes order only without going to the Burnett or super Burnett orders However the local particle collision time has to be generalized to depend not only on the local macroscopic ow variables but also their gradients in the rare ed gas regime Based on the gas kinetic BGK model the relation between the conventional collision time and the general one is obtained More specially a generalized constitutive relation for stress and heat flux is proposed This new model is applied to the study of argon gas shock structure There is good agreement between the predicted shock structure and experimental results for a wide range of Mach numbers International Atomic Energy Agency Publications: Catalogue International Atomic Energy Agency,1985 Crystallization of Stretched Polyimides: A
