The Politics of Southeast Asia's New Media William Atkins, 2013-11-19. The past decade has seen a major structural shift in broadcasting in Southeast Asia, with the development of digital satellite and cable broadcasting. This shift has impacted upon some of the most information-sensitive governments in the world: Singapore, Malaysia, and until recently, Indonesia. Atkins traces this development in five countries showing that the challenge to authoritarian regimes anticipated by modern theorists as a result of the globalization of news and information is not materializing. Instead a new commercial elite has arisen in Southeast Asia's own mini moguls who act as gatekeepers for state interests as partners to global media companies.
