Asia Gas Study:

South East Asia Gas Study , In addition to existing gas producing countries there are several emerging countries in Southeast Asia that are promoting gas production and use Since rising energy needs will increase Asia s dependency on imported oil the further development of gas resources will play an increasingly important role in improving energy security and in providing environmental protection for the region This study a follow up to the IEA s Asia Gas Study 1996 describes the current situation uncertainties and future challenges in the gas sectors of the Philippines Vietnam and Myanmar Over the next ten years the role of natural gas will expand steadily in these countries The development of gas sectors could also encourage the construction of a gas pipeline network in Southeast Asia Asia Gas Study International Energy Agency,1996

Natural Gas in Asia Ian Wybrew-Bond,Jonathan P. Stern,David Fridley,Akira Miyamoto,Keun-Wook Paik,Najeeb Jung,2002 The future energy needs of China India and the rest of Asia are considerable Will gas supplies respond to this expanding demand Large scale projects will have to be implemented in Russia the Central Asian Republics and the Middle East to bring required supplies to Asian markets in the years to 2020 This book assesses the economic opportunities political obstacles and other challenges to these projects China's Integration in Asia Robert Ash,2013-12-16 A collection of authoritative papers on key issues for China s relations with other countries in the region in terms of trade defence regional development energy security and social political and economic development India and the Global Game of Gas Pipelines Gulshan Dietl,2016-11-03 Gas pipelines constitute an important yet unexplored aspect of strategic geography As one of the fastest growing economies in the world India s need for energy is paramount Though surrounded by gas rich regions Myanmar and Bangladesh to the east the Gulf to the west and Central Asia to the north India does not have a single gas pipeline coming in going out or traversing through its territory to date This book highlights the global competition over gas pipelines and its implications for India s energy security in a comprehensive manner The author leads us through a labyrinthine world comprising numerous actors the states energy firms scientists engineers investors and bankers engaged in competition over these pipelines leading to a continuous game of checkmating rivals instigating conflicts causing damage and destruction and threatening military action to persuade or dissuade states from joining specific projects Pulsating rigorous grounded in hard facts and solid research this book will be indispensable for scholars and researchers of international relations strategic affairs defence studies and politics as well as think tanks government agencies and the informed general reader Liquefied Natural Gas Demand in Asia ,2018 The Palgrave Encyclopedia of Global Security Studies ,2023-02-15 This encyclopedia provides an authoritative guide intended for students of all levels of studies offering multidisciplinary insight and analysis of over 500 headwords covering the main concepts of Security and Non traditional Security and their relation to other scholarly fields and aspects of real world issues in the contemporary geopolitical world The Natural Gas Revolution Robert W.
