Command Influence:

Unlawful Command Influence: Preserving the Delicate Balance Martha H. Bower, AIR COMMAND AND STAFF COLL MAXWELL AFB AL., 1987 This paper addresses the issue of unlawful command influence in the military justice system. A delicate balance exists between the commander's need to announce command policies to members of his command and the need for a fair trial. When the commander or his representative takes action to upset this delicate balance either by improperly influencing the court members during a trial or by intimidating defense witnesses, unlawful command influence results. This has a deleterious impact on the accused and the military justice system. It may also subject the commander to prosecution under the Uniform Code of Military Justice. This paper examines the legislative history of unlawful command influence and then examines relevant case law. It then makes recommendations for the commander and his staff to preclude the problem from arising and recommends remedial actions should unlawful command influence occur. Unlawful Command Influence Suzanne L. Wheeler, 2025-05-22 This study explores the issue of unlawful command influence in the USAF from the squadron commander's perspective. First, this paper examines the history of the law which governs our military personnel and defines unlawful command influence. A review of select case history further clarifies today's legal definition. Additionally, this paper considers relevant training and learning opportunities that shape our officers' understanding of the law. Next, interviews provide the squadron commander's perspective. The three elements in the legal definition—training and experience and commander's evaluation—are then pulled together in a discussion germane to unlawful command influence. Finally, this paper offers recommendations for mitigating unlawful command influence, doing so will serve to ensure commanders the freedom of action to carry out their lawful duty of maintaining morale, welfare, and discipline of the personnel under their command.
