Pines,1993-07-01 In this book Christopher Pines demonstrates that

Karl Marx conceived of ideology as false consciousness. He shows how the different meanings of false consciousness found in the writings of Marx and Engels reflect the influence of the views of the Baconian, French Enlightenment and of Hegelian Feuerbachian philosophies. Pines argues that for Marx the diverse senses of false consciousness all generally denote a social consciousness that takes certain false things to be true regarding matters of significance to class-divided societies.

Studies in the History of Educational Theory Vol 1 (RLE Edu H) G Bantock, 2012-05-16. This book examines key theorists in depth in order to give some insight into cultural change as reflected in their curricular recommendations and in the interplay they reveal between the two fundamental educational concepts of artifice and nature. The essays on the various theorists—Erasmus, Vives, Castiglione, Elyot, Montaigne, Bacon, Comenius, Locke, and Rousseau—can be read separately, but the book also forms an integrated whole with a continuity of themes explored from theorist to theorist. The book not only charts a historical development but also reveals much that may deepen our understanding of contemporary educational dilemmas.
