Amber Forest:

The Amber Forest George O. Poinar, Roberta Poinar, 1999 The Poinars are world leaders in the study of amber fossils and have spent years examining the uniquely rich supply that has survived from the ancient forests of the Dominican Republic They draw on their research here to reconstruct in words drawings and spectacular color photographs the ecosystem that existed on the island of Hispaniola between fifteen and forty five million years ago The Poinars present richly detailed drawings of how the forests once appeared They discuss how and when life colonized Hispaniola and what caused some forms to become extinct Along the way they describe how amber is formed how and where it has been preserved and how it is mined sold and occasionally forged for profit today

Evolution of Fossil Ecosystems Paul Selden, John Nudds, 2012-12-31 The first edition of Evolution of Fossil Ecosystems was widely praised for its coverage and approach in describing and illustrating 14 well known fossil sites from around the world The authors have now updated the text and added 6 new chapters with many new color illustrations Following a general introduction to fossil Lagerstätten each chapter deals with a single site and follows the same format its evolutionary position and significance its background sedimentology stratigraphy and palaeoenvironment a description of the biota and palaeoecology a comparison with other similar Lagerstätten and a list of relevant museums and suggestions for visiting the sites This study of exceptionally well preserved fossil sites from different periods in geological time provides a picture of the evolution of ecosystems through the ages Covers several sites that are not listed in other Lagerstätten books making this the most comprehensive book on the topic Beautifully illustrated throughout with more than 450 color photographs and diagrams Provides value to a wide range of students and professionals in palaeontology and related sciences     Western Municipal News ,1929     Fossil Spiders David Penney, Paul A. Selden, Paul Selden, 2011 Compared to insects fossil spiders have received only scant attention in the literature Previously the only works available were numerous scientific papers many published in foreign languages Most of these are basic descriptive taxonomic works with very few considering broader biological concepts Despite a significant increase in the discovery and description of fossil spiders within the last quarter Century this void remained unfilled Thus this short monograph aims to achieve several objectives Firstly to provide general and up to date background information on the overall importance and diversity of fossils spiders including an indication of those groups for which the taxonomy is spurious and in need of reassessment Secondly to discuss the techniques available for working with fossil spiders and some of the problems encountered by palaeoarachnologists including bias and limitations of the spider fossil record Thirdly the overall evolutionary history of spiders is summarized in the form of an evolutionary tree which is subsequently used to address key issues of broad interest such as origins diversifications and extinctions including the effects of mass extinctions and predator prey co radiations Finally the contribution that fossil data can make to understanding the past and present biogeography of the order is considered This book should be of interest to both amateur and professional arachnologists and palaeontologists and will also serve as a general palaeontological reference work for neonologists studying extant spiders
