

CREATING AN AUTHENTIC ASSESSMENT

TRAIT 1: REAL-WORLD APPLICABILITY

The task that students are ultimately completing should have real-world applicability; in other words, it should utilize skills that they will need in their life outside of school.

TRAIT 2: AUTHENTIC AUDIENCE

There should be some pressure to this assignment! Your students are comfortable around you; bring in other teachers, business people, or have students submit work outside the classroom. Their audience should be someone other than their teacher!

TRAIT 3: HANDS-ON ACTIVITY

This doesn't have to be complicated--writing and speaking are hands-on activities! Basically, the final task should be significantly more complicated than a multiple choice test. Students should have to do work and present it.

BONUS: STAGING

The setting should be different for your students. Have them read their speeches to the mayor at his office; have them deliver their projects in person. If you aren't leaving your classroom for this assessment, then stage it. Add table cloths and centerpieces to raise the bar and subconsciously tell your students that is important!
