Negation Patterns in West African Languages and Beyond Norbert Cyffer, Erwin Ebermann, Georg Ziegelmeyer, 2009 This volume deals with issues on negation patterns in languages of West Africa and the adjacent north and east The first aim is to provide data on various aspects of negation in African languages Although the topics addressed here reflect a great diversity of negation patterns the following typological features have been identified to be prominent in our region conflict or even incompatibility between negation and focus use of other indirect means of negating non indicative mood covered under the term Prohibitive different negation patterns in different Tense Aspect Moods e g Imperfective vs Perfective lack of negative indefinites and disjunctive negative marking often referred to as double negation The articles presented here show that areal factors have played a significant role in the development of negation strategies in the languages of West Africa and beyond On the other hand genetic factors seem to be less prominent

An Introduction to Linguistic Typology Viveka Velupillai, 2012 Offers an introduction to linguistic typology that covers various linguistic domains from phonology and morphology over parts of speech the NP and the VP to simple and complex clauses pragmatics and language change This title also includes a discussion on methodological issues in typology

Functional Structure from Top to Toe Peter Svenonius, 2014 This volume consists of nine original chapters on central issues in theoretical syntax all written by distinguished authors who have made major contributions to generative syntax plus an introductory chapter by the editor Dedicated to Tarald Taraldsen the collection reflects the diverse energies that have pushed the cartographic program forward over the last decade The first three papers deal with subject extraction the que qui alternation and relative clause formation Luigi Rizzi presents arguments that subjects are criterial and that subject extraction is highly restricted Hilda Koopman and Dominique Sportiche concur suggesting that what appears to be subject extraction in French has been misanalyzed and involves a relative structure Adriana Belletti shows that children avoid using object relatives preferring subject relatives even when it requires passivization The fourth paper by Ian Roberts analyzes the loss of pro drop in the history of French and Brazilian Portuguese The papers by M Rita Manzini and Richard S Kayne both present novel analyses of complementizers suggesting that they are essentially nominal rather than verbal The final three papers address the relationship of morphology to syntax The first two argue for a syntactic approach to word formation Guglielmo Cinque s in a typological context and Anders Holmberg s within an analysis of Finnish focus constructions The final paper by Edwin Williams presents an argument for the limitations of the syntactic approach to word formation The

Paradigmatic Structure of Person Marking Michael Cysouw, 2003-07-03 This book investigates paradigms of person both independent pronouns as well as bound person marking Based on empirical and theoretical grounds the author argues that the notion number has to be redefined to deal with the cross linguistic variation of person marking Equipped with a new definition a typology of the paradigmatic structure of person marking is presented incorporating data from around 400 languages Nothing appears to be impossible for the paradigmatic structure although some patterns are clearly more probable than others are Starting from the more commonly occurring patterns the diachronic dynamics of paradigmatic structure are investigated by comparing close relatives that differ slightly in the structure of their person paradigms

Coordination and Subordination Sandra Pereira, Clara Pinto, Fernanda Pratas, 2016-06-22 Recent studies on the syntax and semantics of complex sentences have dealt with several challenges to the traditional boundaries between coordination and subordination Some constructions belong to one of the two types according to syntactic criteria but relate to the other type on semantic grounds whereas other constructions are not compatible with either the canonical syntactic or semantic tests traditionally employed to establish this distinction Other constructions by contrast seem to have evolved in such a way that they now cross the divide between both types The collection of papers in this volume delves further into the theoretical implications of previous analyses and focuses on a wide array of data from different languages taking those challenges as a point of departure to develop innovative perspectives and to advance thought provoking ideas

The Emergence of Distinctive Features Jeff Mielke, 2008-03-13 The Emergence of Distinctive Features will be of essential interest to phonologists and typologists as well as to syntacticians cognitive scientists and scholars outside linguistics interested in the nature of language and its acquisition BOOK JACKET Swahili Learners' Reference Grammar Katrina Daly

Thompson, Antonia Yétúndé Fólárìn Schleicher, 2001 This reference grammar is written for speakers of English who are learning Swahili Because many language learners are not familiar with the grammatical terminology this book explains the basic terminology and concepts of English grammar that are necessary for understanding the grammar of Swahili It assumes no formal knowledge of English grammar and is written in very simple language This book is designed to be used as a supplement to other Swahili language textbooks and provides more extensive explanations of the grammar lessons presented in textbooks The manual is arranged by topic to help learners locate information easily The book is organized in 55 chapters with a section for each part of speech nouns pronouns adjectives verbs adverbs conjunctions and prepositions There are also sections for sentences and miscellaneous References appear in footnotes throughout the text Contains a glossary an index and an answer key KFT Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts, 1999 Studies in African Linguistics, 2006

Journal of African Languages and Linguistics, 2002 The African Book Publishing Record, 2000 The Literary Griot, 1999 A Grammar of Jingulu Rob Pensalfini, 2003 This book is intended as a thorough description of the Jingulu language as spoken by the handful of speakers remaining in the Northern Territory during the mid to late 1990s The description is based on material which the author collected during three field trips from 1995 to late 1998 Chapter 1 focuses on the socio historical context in which the language is spoken including estimated of tradition area number of speakers and genetic and cultural affiliations Chapter 2 is devoted to Jingulu phonology from the phoneme inventory and phonotactics to a spectacular system of vowel harmony and some interesting facts on reduplication Chapter 3 outlines the parts of speech of Jingulu as understood by the author and argues for the particular labels and categories that the author assumes in following chapters Chapter 4 discusses Jingulu syntax from simple verbal and non verbal predication to the encoding of dependent and conjoined clauses Chapters 5 and 6 are expositions of the morphology of Jingulu nominal and verbal words respectively Chapter 7 contains a few exemplary texts glossed and translated into English Through the grammar the author has preferred to provide more sentence examples rather than fewer particular where the author was less than certain about the accuracy of his own description to provide readers with a sense of what Jingulu sentences are actually like beyond what can be gleaned from prose description and to provide future researchers with organised material with which to build their own hypotheses and analyses This grammar contains no word list or dictionary A separate Jingulu dictionary by the author is in preparation American Book Publishing Record Cumulative 1998 R R Bowker Publishing,1999-03 Language ,2008
