Aging In Today's Environment:

Developments in Aging United States. Congress. Senate. Special Committee on Aging, Aging, 1979 Climate Change in an Aging Society Harry R. Moody, 2024-12-03 Climate Change in an Aging Society is the first book fully devoted to the impact of climate change on those who are old today and those who will be old in decades to come. In doing so, Moody focuses on issues of critical importance: aging in place, health and age in a warming world, responsibility for the climate crisis, options for climate-conscious consumers, planning for investment for a green retirement, and opportunities for political action. The number of Americans aged over 65 is projected to rise from 17% to 21% by 2060; nearly one in four Americans will be 65 or older. By 2050, however, average temperatures in the USA could rise by as much as 3°C, and extreme weather events are likely to become more frequent and severe. Despite these alarming projections and the likelihood that climate change will cause serious health issues among the elderly, little attention has been devoted to the impact of climate change on this demographic. Employing a life course perspective and a cross-generational approach, Moody assesses the impact of climate change on those who are old today and those who will be old in years to come. Challenging both climate complacency and climate defeatism, the book adopts as its clarion call: HERE NOW YOU HOPE. Written in an engaging personal style with highlighting case studies of influential eco-elders, this urgent book will be of great interest to students and scholars with interests in climate change, gerontology, and environmental and social policy. Functional Performance in Older Adults Bette R. Bonder, Vanina Dal Bello-Haas, 2017-12-04 Support the very best health, well-being, and quality of life for older adults. Here is the ideal resource for rehabilitation professionals who are working with or preparing to work with older adults. You will find descriptions of the normal aging process, discussions of how health and social factors can impede your clients' ability to participate in regular activities, and step-by-step guidance on how to develop strategies for maximizing their well-being.

Theory Development in Environment and Aging Paul G. Windley, Thomas O. Byerts, 1975 Ageing in Urban Neighbourhoods Allison E. Smith, 2009-09-02 This title draws attention to the impact of urban deprivation on older people's lives. Older Adults, Health Information, and the World Wide Web Roger W. Morrell, 2001-11 This work explores how the Web might be used to deliver current, easily accessible health information to adults over the age of 60 and their caregivers. It considers how age-related changes in vision, cognitive function, and motor skills impact on the delivery of health information.
