

Global decoupling of agricultural land and food production

Agricultural land is the sum of cropland and pasture for grazing livestock. Production is measured in constant 2015 international-dollars, which adjusts for inflation. Includes all crops and livestock.

Global agricultural land use

5 billion hectares

Global agricultural production

$4 trillion

Global land use for agriculture has peaked and is now falling. This is due to a reduction in global pasture*. Global croplands are still expanding.

Global agricultural production has continued to increase despite a reduction in land use

*A peak in global pasture land does not mean that it has peaked everywhere. In tropical regions, it continues to increase, often at the expense of carbon-rich habitats.
